School Board To Answer Over-staffing Charge

Exception Taken To Statement of Hon. J. Hinchliffe

Victoria Trustees Will Discuss Charge of Minister of Education That High School Here Has Too Many Teachers; Members of Board Decline to Comment, But Special Meeting May Be Held.

Incensed by statements made by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, at Kelowna, B.C., yesterday regarding alleged over-staffing of the Victoria High School, members of the Victoria School Board will probably meet in special session early next week, it was learned this morning.

While no statements on the matter could be obtained from individual members of the board to-day, it was understood that the question would be carefully considered and a reply made on the Minister's demands as soon as possible. In the meanwhile, the High School was in conference with Municipal Inspector George H. Deane and a member of the board this morning.

SAYS SEVENTEEN TOO MANY

According to telegraphic reports of the session of the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention yesterday, Mr. Hinchliffe said, in reference to the Victoria High School, that there were twenty teachers in the school, while there may have been fifty-two teachers instead of thirty-five. If Victoria would only take the standard of Vancouver, which has one teacher for every thirty students, Victoria could reduce its teaching staff by ten teachers, or sufficient to look after pupils with the four-year high school course.

Mr. Hinchliffe was suggesting a remedy for high education costs.

Members of the Victoria board approached this morning declined to make any comment.

"It is a matter for the whole board to decide," said Trustee W. G. Morebey, K.C.

"I understand something will be done, but I would not like to make any statement," said Trustee G. A. Heben.

Mr. Dilworth also said he would prefer to defer any comment until the matter came before the board. He intimated that he would appear before the trustees and explain the position regarding the school.

Mr. Deane also reserved comment until after the board met.

JOBLESS TO INVADE CITY HALL MONDAY

Will Observe "Prosperity Week" By Seeking Employment From Civic Authorities

Decide to Make Association Permanent Body; to Attend Council Meeting

Plans to have a steady stream of men invading the City Hall to ask for work next Monday and to attend the council meeting that evening in a body were outlined at a mass meeting of the Victoria Unemployed Association in the field opposite the Government Employment Office this morning.

The move, the first point of duty to be the first gesture of the jobless to observe "Prosperity Week" here, the meeting also endorsed a move to make the association a permanent institution.

Speakers again claimed unemployed were being treated unfairly.

One suggested that the association form up in a body and sit in the City Hall until its members received work or food. The meeting, however, favored an orderly series of requests for relief.

Standing on a box, H. Hetherington urged the gathering to follow through some action was secured and advocated the men invade the City Hall and ask the authorities when they would provide work and how they would distribute it.

"We are not looking for trouble," Mr. Hetherington continued. "We are looking for work."

ALL ASSETS SEIZED TO CUT LOSSES

B.C. Bond Corporation Put Into Bankruptcy; Debts and Assets Listed

Firm's Large Holdings For Own Account at Bank Revealed; Liquidation On

Following a day's investigation by F. E. Winslow of the Royal Trust, acting for the clients, and by E. J. Prior, as representative of the Attorney-General under the Security Fraud Prevention Act, the B.C. Bond Corporation, stock brokers, correspondents of Logan and Bryan of New York, were placed in bankruptcy last evening by W. C. Morebey, K.C., the firm's counsel.

All assets and books have been taken over by Mr. Winslow, who has been appointed official custodian by Supreme Court Registrar B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, with whom the assignment papers have been filed.

AUDIT UNDER WAY

A. N. Mount, former comptroller-general of the firm, was today appointed by Mr. Winslow to make a complete audit of affairs.

Just what the total losses to client investors will be will not be known until the securities carried on the corporation's books account will be accounted for.

Mr. Winslow has agreed to assume his audit of the firm's assets.

The clients' holdings were sold out two days ago.

ALL ASSETS SEIZED

The government investigators said that all the assets of the B.C. Bond Corporation, including the Rock Gas Company, were to be disposed of in the bankruptcy for the benefit of the client-investors. All the profit derived from the sale of stocks and bonds carried on the B.C. Bond's account will be paid to the clients.

An effort is being made to recover the stockholders in the corporation, who paid $100 a share for its preferred stock, will have that whole investment wiped out, as all that can be traced of the capital of the company will go to the benefit of the client-investors.

FIRECRACKERS BARRED WARNS POLICE CHIEF

Storekeepers and Youths Issued Orders; Kites Cannot Be Flown in City

With the approach of Halloween and the explosion of fireworks in different parts of the city to herald its coming, Chief of Police John Fry this morning issued a warning to storekeepers and youths regarding the sale and use of explosive materials.

Under by-law 357, the chief pointed out, "no person shall sell or give gunpowder, fireworks or other explosive or any explosive combustible to any minor under the age of sixteen years," the chief declared.

The chief also issued a warning in regard to kite flying, pointing out that under by-law 355 "No person shall raise or fly a kite within the city limits save in a public park."

Sergeant Taylor was hit in the hand and Mrs. Taylor in the thigh. The shots were fired from a motor car a short distance away, which escaped with its three occupants. Neither of the victims were seriously hurt and both had their wounds dressed in hospital.

There was nothing droll in to-day's commemoration service for the thirty-eight victims of the disaster to the giant dirigible, R-101, which crashed in flames near Beauvais, France, last Sunday. Save for the scarlet liveries of the Lord Mayor and the Court of Common Council, the mighty behemoth betrayed little but a great mass of citizens garbed in their quietest apparel. A group of Indians wore turbans and in one transit was a company of the Royal Air Force.

Sailmakers Working on Bluenose's Badly Fitting Canvas Crew May Be Augmented By Men From Gloucester Fishing Fleet

By T. HORGAN, Associated Press Staff Writer

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 10.—Six ships are coming from Montreal to load grain cargoes here. It was announced to-day that congestion at the St. Lawrence port is said to have been responsible in diverting tonnage to the Pacific Coast.

Common Bells, line of Newentons-Tye-Tyne, are sending three of their ships, the Simonburn, Hindustan and Waziristan in ballast from Montreal, according to Thomas Caring of the Harvey Shipping Company. Three other vessels are reported ready to move to Vancouver in ballast, a distance of 5,000 miles.

GRAIN SITUATION

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 10.—Varied aspects of the grain situation—classed as Canada's problem of the year—were outlined to-day by steamship owners dotted across the Dominion. "Decidedly more hopeful outlook" for Canadian wheat export is noted by E. A. Ursell, Grain Board statistician, as less optimistic prairie reports envisaged crop losses due to rain-hampered threshing.

Meanwhile, Vancouver shipbookings relate that half-a-dozen grain boats are en route from the St. Lawrence port to the Pacific coast harbors. Maritime officials have been quoted as "at a loss to explain" the long journey by Panama Canal to take on cargoes which could be obtained from the grain-filled elevators at Montreal.

Millions of bushels, it is believed, will be cut from the estimates of the grain crop due to the halt in threshing occasioned by rainy weather in northern Saskatchewan and Alberta.

One month ago the Dominion Bureau of Statistics forecasted a grain crop of 100 million bushels, but "now it is estimated that the crop will be 80 million bushels," the chief statistician said. This is due to the fact that the grain crop in the West is not as good as expected.

Bluenose, although a racing vessel, carried only twenty-four tons of grain to the forty-two aboard the racing boat. Captain Angus Walters, who has more often sailed her to victory than to defeat, was busy going over other equipment.

Bluenose was fitted out so hastily by the International series that her misfitting suit of sails did not become fully apparent until she actually appeared on the racing course. The boat, built for the 1928-29 race, had to be hauled up the dock to be repaired. The boat was then put back into the water and the crew were given time to make the necessary repairs.

There are many men from the Maritime Provinces in the Gloucester fleet and it is probable that some of them may transfer their allegiance.

RETRIAL FOR ALEX. PANTAGES IS DENIED

Los Angeles, Oct. 10.—The district court of appeals denied the joint petition of the state's attorney general and the defense attorney for a re-trial of its recent order that Alexander Pantages, theatre magnate, be given a new trial. The higher court recently granted Pantages' request for the retrial after being convicted of assault upon Eunice Pringle, co-ed dancer.

The official communiqué asserted the wave of strikes which has swept over Spain had "Frankly revolutionary" motives, and that in many instances political agitators were using supposedly legal means to mask seditionist aims.

The government explains a "strange aspect" of walkouts has reached such proportions drastic action is needed to prevent further spread of the movement, which already has caused heavy material losses to Spain, as well as tending to lower Spanish prestige abroad.

All legal strikes will be protected to the utmost, the communiqué says, but those of a political character will be dealt with drastically under laws relating to public order passed in 1879.

The cabinet explains that it believes in the absence of parliament, that it is defending the best interests of the country.

Angus McLean New Head of Canadian Commerce Chambers

Canadian Press

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Angus McLean, Bathurst, N.B., was yesterday afternoon elected president of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce.

The convention last evening closed with a brilliant social function at which Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce, W. McL. Clarke, Montreal, on behalf of E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Hon. Alfred Dumaine, Minister of Marine, delivered addresses.

Owing to a slight attack of grippe, Mr. Beatty was unable to attend the banquet, but forwarded his address, which was read by Mr. Clarke, secretary of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce.

Mr. Barnes contended that governmental intervention was largely responsible for absorbing economic depression, adding that business men, "by reason of observation and experience," oppose the entrance of governments into the economic field.

"Every once in a while it became necessary for governments to interfere in business, and we have many outstanding examples of their excesses in Canada. There have been equally outstanding, and even more disappointing, similar intrusions of governments in business in the United States

BUSINESS RECESSION

"We in Canada are passing through a period of business recession," Mr. Beatty said. "Both the cause of the recession and the nature of it are somewhat different from those we have previously experienced. The world is not yet at a standstill, and unusual and unusual conditions are arising in almost every nation, but Canada, despite the depression within her borders, was comparatively fortunate." In 1929, he said, it was realized that wheat, the greatest and most valuable commodity, did not find an easy and ready market in the North American market, so the government had to do something to restore it, he believed, as soon as the normal flow of wheat to overseas countries was resumed. Backed by the cool courage of a level-headed people, he had little doubt that Canada would emerge from this depression without undue delay.

PRESSING PROBLEMS

"The most pressing need of Canada to-day is not the definition of its ranking in the Empire; it is the marketing of its wheat and the problem of unemployment," said Mr. Beatty. "Let us devote our energies to the solution of these paramount questions. All avenues to foreign markets must be opened, and as Minister of Marine, it is my duty to see that our means of transportation be constantly improved." He believed cities which had shown their ability to do their share of national development by building magnificent harbors were deserving of the best attention possible. "As Minister of Marine, I know no provincial boundaries in the Dominion," he said.

The chamber devoted the entire day to a discussion of the Canadian merchant marine, relations and the election of officers. Angus McLean was named president.

The following other officers were installed:

Chairman of executive committee, George C. McDonald, Montreal; vice-public works to be determined upon between the provincial government and the municipalities, and $500,000 for immediate direct relief to the drought areas of the province.

John G. Bennett, Attorney General, and Hon. J. A. Merkley, Minister of Railways, Labor and Industries, signed for Saskatchewan. Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, executed the agreement on behalf of the Dominion.

MAJOR ISSUE

London, Oct. 10.—The Conservatives, hopeful that a new election will thrust them back into power, have found the rallying cry which they will use in their campaign to defeat the MacDonald ministry in Parliament and later at the polls.

That cry will be one of Empire trade preferences, based on the principles advanced by Premier Bennett of Canada, that units of the British Empire, through imposition of a higher tariff on non-British goods, establish an economic co-operation which would be the cornerstone of all the Empire.

Mr. Howard Smith, British Conservative leader, in a statement to the press endorsed the plan wholeheartedly and declared it would be the standard under which the Conservatives would fight their next election campaign.

The Government has made no definite arrangement with the Dominions for an immediate exchange of "Empire" documents.

"There is no doubt whatever the Government will ratify the plan because it involves the food and raw materials," the ministerial herald said to-day, but it adds:

"It is believed by Government circles with good will, a separate programme of economic co-operation within the Empire, apart from tariffs, can be evolved."

MEMORIAL ISSUE

London, Oct. 10.—Premier Bennett's proposal of Empire trade preferences has been adopted by the Conservative party of Great Britain and if an early general election is held, the problem will undoubtedly be a major issue.

Lord Eustace, Earl of Bessborough, wholeheartedly endorsed the plan, and declared it would be the standard under which the Conservatives would fight their next election campaign.

Speculation hinged on the attitude to be adopted by the British Labor Party, which seems unlikely the Government, with its great adherence to free trade opinion, to take the lead in this matter.

The Daily Herald, Labor organ, said today: "There is no doubt whatsoever the Government will retain the plan because it involves taxation of food and raw materials." It is believed by Government circles that with good will, a separate programme of economic co-operation within the Empire, apart from tariffs, can be evolved."

DEATH PENALTY

INCORPORATED IN ITALIAN CODE

Rome, Oct. 10.—The death penalty as a punishment for crime was incorporated in the Italian code of law by the grand council of the Fascist Party in its third session last evening.

The council passed a resolution stating that "we affirm the necessity of the death penalty as a punishment for the state," and also to "repress crimes considered particularly grave."

Premier Mussolini, presiding, took a leading part in the discussion of the death penalty.

At present this penalty is inflicted on the basis of treason or attack on the safety of the state, under temporary authorization by a special court.

In conclusion he again urged the men not to let the days slide by without action and requested them to study the subject and economics related to it.

JAIL A CHARITY

The Chief of Police was the only man who would give a bed to a person who applied for it without getting him arrested for vagrancy, he said. The magistrate and civil servants were pledged to carry out the provisions of the new code.

If you don't make the mayor and aldermen help you, they will not look after them as well as they should have done.

In conclusion he again urged the men not to let the days slide by without action and requested them to study the subject and economics related to it.

bearer and chaplain carrying before him the Metropolitan Cross, alone contrived to get it.

The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, in morning dress, were received at the great west door by the dean of St. Paul's and conducted to seats immediately before the chancel.

The Prime Minister and Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, with members of the cabinet and the premiers of overseas dominions, reached the cathedral in silence.

Following the band of the Royal Air Force, from the little "Jesus Chapel" behind the high altar, played compositions of Handel, Gluck and Mozart.

The National Anthem was followed by the opening sentences of the burial service to the music of Croft. Then came the familiar "Rock of Ages" and later was sung "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Prayers, including "The Lord is My Shepherd" and "The Last Post," were said by the choir, who also gave the "Rest of Christ" and passages from the Litany of St. Christopher.

Except for this, the service was of a simplicity which might have been copied from the commemoration rendered in any humble country church.

Loaded in the plane are fresh meat, fruit, water melons and mall, which the northernmost white settlement has long been without. The mail ordinarily would not reach Barrow until the new year. The flight is the first attempted from Nome to Barrow.

Tea was served, hostesses being Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Russell Robinson and Miss Mary Robinson. Others present were: Mrs. Mather, Mrs. Soutchin, Mrs. Wyllie, Mrs. Gregson, Mrs. A. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cowans spent Monday in Victoria. Joshua Robinson has returned home from a few days' visit to Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Mrs. E. M. Cook has left to spend a week with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baigent, Vancouver.

Miss Josephine Murray is holidaying with friends in Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Clark have re-turned home from Vancouver.

STOMACH gas is not only painful as well as embarrassing but it may be the warning of dangerous stomach troubles. Get rid of it—straighten out the condition that causes it with Tanlac. Few preparations have Tanlac under fair record of success in quickly relieving gas discomfort and stomach distress. Over 100,000 men and women in the past 20 years have written in praise of Tanlac—and over $2 million bottles have been sold. It costs less than 2c; a dose—money refunded by your druggist if it does not help you.

"As for Mr. Bennett's proposal," says The Post, "it is one such as keen men make at the beginning of negotiations. Canada wants security in the British market for her wheat; for a country which depends so largely on one market, the place in our market is well worth having and we, on our side, should expect substantial extension of preferential treatment for British, as opposed to foreign manufacturers, in the Canadian market, we might add that we should expect preferential treatment for British emigrants who are present greatly discouraged by the changes and vagaries of Dominion policy."

"There are in the situation," continues the Conservative newspaper, "all the elements of a big deal beneficial to both sides and not only with Canada, but with all the Dominions, according to their requirements and needs. The only difficulty is that the policy is the contrary policy of our Socialist government. If there can be no agreement on principle all further discussion, as Mr. Bennett points out, represents merely a waste of time. It would be better to adjourn the conference until the British people decide finally and definitely what they want to do. To remain an Empire or sink into the mere island, whether they prefer to go on knocking with empty hands at the closed doors of foreign nations or to enter into their proper heritage with the Dominions."

"By the incredible folly of the Socialists and the Liberals, that issue must be fought out in the Canadian Conference and that the British people will not shrink from the contest and when the fight is fought and won they will be happy to resume negotiations at Ottawa."

SAFETY RULES FOR COOKING AND CLEANING

Don't leave the stove while broiling is being done.

Don't pour water on burning fat; use earth, sand, flour, salt, or a metal cover.

Never let a stove get red hot.

Be careful not to use stove polish on a hot stove; wait until it is cold.

Don't use any kind of stove polish unless you know what is in it; buy the safe kind.

Don't leave sweepings in a piece of paper; put them in the stove.

In cleaning furniture with oil or wax, use only small quantities at a time and burn the polishing rags.

Safety Rules for Rubbing

Keep things tidy; don't allow rubbish to accumulate anywhere in the house or near it.

Don't use oily cloths; put them in a metal basket or can with a cover.

Don't pile dead leaves against anything that will burn. They sometimes ignite themselves.

Bury leaves; don't burn them.

Don't have old pieces of lumber stored up in your basement. Have them cut up into kindling and then piled in a proper place.

Safety Rules for Coal Oil

Study the Rules for Lights.

Be sure that oil heaters and cookers do not leak and that they will not overturn.

Keep the burners clean and do not turn the flames too high.

Keep the oil can outside of the house if possible.

Do not let the floor beneath the can become oil-soaked.

Make sure that the can does not leak nor drip.

Fill by daylight only any receptacle in which oil is to be burned.

Never start a coal or wood fire with oil.

Safety Rules for Electricity

Remember that the human body is a conductor; do not touch wires, or anything else which may be charged with electricity.

Do not have wiring done by any one but an expert and careful electrician.

Never leave an electric device, even for a moment, without making sure that the current is turned off.

REVENUE DOWN EXPENDITURE UP
BUT DEBT LESS

Falling Off in Customs Collections, Feature in Canada's Finance

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—The half-way mark in Canada's fiscal year was reached on September 30 last, and figures covering the ordinary revenue and expenditure of the Dominion during the past six months were issued to-day by Department of Finance.

These show a reduction in the total ordinary revenue of Canada during the past six months as compared with the corresponding period in the previous fiscal year of $37,098,574. Ordinary expenditure, on the other hand, shows an increase of $7,889,048. The net debt of Canada on September 30 last was $2,146,728,568, or $3,512,523 less than on September 30, 1929.

The statement issued to-day represents only the receipts and expenditures which had actually passed through the books of the finance department up to the last day of September.

The major part of the decrease in Canada's ordinary revenue according to the statement, results from a falling-off in customs revenue collected during the past six months as compared with the corresponding period last year. Customs duties collected during the past six months totalled $73,585,050, as against $97,751,062 in the same period in 1929. This is a decrease of $24,166,842.

INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS UP

The total amount derived from excise taxes (sales and stamp taxes) during the past six months was $17,307,923. This was a reduction of $10,475,323. In 1929 it was $24,946,446.

Income tax collections were higher during the past six months than in the same period of 1929. They amounted to $35,478,399 in the six months just concluded as against $63,636,700 in the 1929 period.

Canada's ordinary expenditure for the six months just concluded was $169,080,456. During the six-month period in 1929 it amounted to $161,441,413. The total ordinary revenue during the six months just ended was $212,462,952, while in the six months of 1929 it was $249,561,526.

AIMS OF PRESS SERVICE LAUDED

Commendation of Inter-empire Co-operative Action of Union By Chambers

Canadian Press

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Commanding the action of the Empire Press Union in advocating the establishment of an inter-empire co-operative news gathering and distribution service along the lines "so successfully worked out in Canada by the Canadian Press," a resolution was yesterday unanimously adopted by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in connection here. The resolution also commends the press union for inaugurating periodic news letters covering the economic and cultural sides of Canadian life for distribution throughout the press of Great Britain, and expresses the hope that the press of Great Britain and other parts of the empire will co-operate along similar lines.

Another resolution expressed the opinion of the chamber that every encouragement be given to the development of "air red" aviation connecting the various parts of the empire, and that the chamber would favor the granting of reasonable subsidies to approved British interests to assist in the establishing of a regular trans-empire air service between Canada and Great Britain.

Urging the Dominion Government to consider the income tax as circumstances warrant, and recommending the "removal of any injustices now existing through the duplicatory taxation"—another motion was carried without discussion. The resolution pointed out that income tax is a progressive tax, and that its effect on general business and resulted in increased revenue despite the lesser rate of taxation.

SAFETY RULES PREVENT FIRES

Fire Agents' Association Asks Co-operation of Citizens

The Victoria and District Fire Agents' Association wish to call the attention of the residents of Victoria to the following safety rules, which have been prepared by the Dominion Fire Protection Commission, and which should prove to be helpful in eliminating fires and needless loss of valuable lives:

Safety Rules for Cooking and Cleaning

Don't leave the stove while broiling is being done.

Don't pour water on burning fat; use earth, sand, flour, salt, or a metal cover.

Never let a stove get red hot.

Be careful not to use stove polish on a hot stove; wait until it is cold.

A LIFE-BUOY FOR MR. BALDWIN.

WHATEVER MAY BE THE FATE OF MR. BENNETT'S TARIFF PROPOSALS
Mr. Bennett's tariff proposals to the Imperial Conference, they have served one purpose of party politics in the Old Country. Mr. Baldwin has adopted them as the bases of the policy which, he says, he will offer to the electors in the next election. This will not be the Conservative leader's first policy in regard to fiscal matters in the last few years, nor the second, nor even the third. Not more than a year ago he was in agreement with Lords Beaverbrook and Rothermere on empire free trade, subject to the reservation that there would be no food taxes without the approval of the people recorded in a referendum. Mr. Baldwin had good reason to doubt the value of food tax proposals as a political platform plank, because he had been beaten on that issue and remembered what happened to the Balfour government on the same policy.

Lords Beaverbrook and Rothermere, however, object to a referendum on food taxes. They want Mr. Baldwin to declare for a policy of a tariff on foreign food imports without any strings, and to conduct his campaign on that issue. Whether his acceptance of Mr. Bennett's proposals—which may be succeeded by some other expedient as time goes by—will reconcile him with the newspaper political dictators, remains to be seen. Mr. Bennett declared that empire free trade, which is the object of Lords Beaverbrook and Rothermere, is not feasible, but it is possible that the owners of The Express and The Mail may modify their scheme to suit the new book, and then the protectionist will be all happily united under one big tent.

The great bulk of Britain's imports are foodstuffs, and raw materials for her industries. Her policy has been to purchase these in the cheapest markets and sell her manufactured products in the dearest. She has had to be essentially a world trader. Whatever the protectionist press in London may have to say in favor of erecting a tariff wall for these vital necessities of life and industry to climb over, the plain people of the country will need a lot of convincing before they will approve of even a ten per cent tax on commodities which affect them so vitally, however indifferent they may be to a tariff on imported manufacturers.

MR. W. S. FRASER

THE SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. WALTER S. FRASER
S. Fraser, which occurred at the family residence yesterday, was a painful shock to a host of friends in this community. As late as Monday Mr. Fraser appeared to be in the best of health and spirits with every promise of many enjoyable years ahead of him.

Mr. Fraser was born in Liverpool fifty-nine years ago and came to Victoria in 1898, residing here ever since. He became associated with his father in business and was actively engaged in this enterprise until four years ago, when he retired. Although the business which bore his name exacted heavy demands upon his time, Mr. Fraser was never too busy to render community service. He was a useful member of the Board of Trade, while his humanitarian instincts found an outlet in his work on the board of St. Joseph's Hospital. In recent years he found considerable relaxation on the golf course, and he will be greatly missed by the members of Colwood Golf and Country Club, as he will at the Pacific Club.

Mr. Fraser had many amiable qualities, a cheery smile at all times, and his good fellowship enabled him to make and keep the many friends who now are sincerely missing his passing. The Times extends its sympathy to Mrs. Fraser and the sorrowing family.

100 PER CENT CANADIANISM

HAPPILY FOR THE PEACE OF MIND
H of all of us, our pre-election pessimists are beginning to forget their woes; they are discovering that although the country is feeling the effect of a worldwide economic backwash, conditions might be a very great deal worse than they are. To help them to regain a little more of their optimism we commend to them this letter, signed "An Englishman," which appeared in a recent issue of The Montreal Star, an inspiring philosophy for "Prosperity Week."

I am pleased to write to you to-day. Please, because I am beginning to reap the benefits of years of honest work in Canada. Satisfied that in this wonderful country of my adoption my experiences have been more varied, my travels more extensive and my whole outlook upon life broader by far than they could ever have been had I remained in the Mother Country. Glad to think I have been able to obliterate the hall-mark of the immigrant and become a citizen of this great country, Canada. Happy to be able to converse in the two languages of the country and thus appreciate to the full the wonderful qualities and characteristics of the two great races working in union to place Canada in the forefront of the nations. Thankful to have forgotten that class distinction which haunted me when a scholarship boy at college. Thankful to be accepted upon my merits and judged according to my talents. Thankful to have lost all antipathy for race and creed and to have my American friends, French-Canadian friends, friends of all nationalities and beliefs.

Content with life as it is in Canada. Delighted with the climate of the country, with the sunny days of summer and the clear, crisp, healthy days of winter. Lost in admiration for its beauty, its mountains and lakes, the grandeur of its forests, its grassy plains, its wild and rugged coasts, its waterfalls and rapids. Pleased with my home, with a wife just as Canadian in sentiment as myself, and my little Canadian daughter, who cannot think of a fairer land than Canada, because there is no fairer.

And why all this effusion? Is it not time that some of the adopted sons of Canada gave voice to appreciation instead of criticism? Let every Englishman, or every immigrant for that matter, apply himself to the study of Canada. Let him open his eyes to the immense resources and possibilities of the Dominion. Let him follow its development, learn of its immense water power and industrial facilities, let him see its farms and orchards, let him consider the physical, mental, and moral standard of its population, let him compare its climate with that of any country, and if, after all, he cannot shake off the shackles of prejudice and antipathy, let him go home.

The writer of the above has every right to call himself a Canadian. His letter breathes the spirit upon which this Dominion has thrived. The more there is of it the better it will be for Canada. The call to all of us to open our eyes should be heard. Canada and a narrow outlook do not harmonize. Vision and industry are the handmaidens of progress.

CONFUSION

THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT HAS RESTORED THE FORMER SCALE OF DUTIES ON GLASS FOLLOWING COMPLAINTS OVER THE INCREASE OF PRICES IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE RECENT TARIFF CHANGES.

In regard to this particular item the government has kept the promise Mr. Bennett made in the House of Commons while his tariff bill was under discussion. It is, of course, a direct admission that as far as glass is concerned the new tariff raised the price to the consumers. But right here a complication arises. Large quantities of this commodity must have been sold in the meantime. Will the dealers and consumers get back the additional money they have recently paid for their glass?

Here we have a striking example of the economic disturbance which can be created by haphazard tinkering with the tariff. It was to avoid such confusion that Mr. Robb and Mr. Fielding never made tariff changes without long and careful inquiry into their effect upon industry. And Mr. Dunsmuir was governed largely by the recommendations of an able tariff commission.

LIKES VICTORIA

THE FOLLOWING EXCERPT FROM AN EDITORIAL IN A RECENT ISSUE OF THE KAMLOOPS SENTINEL WILL BE OF INTEREST TO THOSE WHO CONSIDER, AND RIGHTLY SO, THAT VICTORIA IS ONE OF THE MOST FAVORED SPOTS ON THE AMERICAN CONTINENT:

A man from Kamloops interviewed an American millionaire in Victoria the other day and asked him frankly what had taken him to that city when his means could allow him to live anywhere he liked in his own country. The American replied that he liked the country, he liked the climate, the people, and so on. Had the liquor law anything to do with it, he was asked. Perhaps a little, he wasn't a drinking man at all, but when he wanted a drink he liked to have it. Was there anything else which lured him to Victoria or the country that he could think of, concluded his interlocutor. Well, there was, he did approve of the law and order!

It may be true that Victoria has not a monopoly of general good behavior. At the same time, serious crime in this city is largely conspicuous by its absence. As for the rest of the comments of the acquaintance of the man from Kamloops, Victorians will be glad to learn that he is happy and comfortable among them.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAYDEALING WITH UNEMPLOYMENT

The Montreal Canada

Mr. Bennett has played with the unemployment issue. The opposition will not permit him to continue. When he proposes to hand over to the provincial governments the distribution of the subsidies, the Prime Minister is trying to evade his responsibilities. It is a poor pretext to avoid giving information which the public ought to have.

Delinquent Children

The Detroit News

At a meeting held to discuss Dr. Burt R. Shurley's plan for a special school for children of delinquent tendencies, a difference of opinion arose as to whether crime is a disease. One man said it was as surely a disease as is jaundice. Another said this view was "soft-hearted and soft-headed," and that crime is not a disease. That question can be discussed till the cows come home, without getting a practical answer. And it happens that it is beside the point. The point is that there are children who, if they are not shown how to go straight, go crooked. That may be the result of a physical defect, hereditary or acquired; it may be because of wrong surroundings and bad training. What does it matter? The problem is to keep that child from becoming an addict to unsocial practices. If that can be done by sending him to a special school provided for the purpose, by all means let such a school be established.

A THOUGHT

Thus saith the Lord God: Woe unto the foolish prophets, that follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing.—Ezekiel xliii. 3.

We are so presumptuous that we wish to be known to all the world, even to those who come after us; and we are so vain that the esteem of five or six persons immediately around us is sufficient to arouse and satisfy us.—Pascal.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

The Victoria Daily Times, October 10, 1905

A. E. Barrett, the contractor for the erection of the C.P.R. hotel, has taken up his home in this city during the time which will be occupied with the work. He is now occupying a residence on Pemberton Road.

During the past summer a twenty-five-piece band, the nucleus of which was formed of Victoria musicians, has been constantly employed giving entertainments at the Krug Park, Victoria.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and Vicinity—North-westerly and easterly winds, continued fair, not much change in temperature.

The consideration of a couple of by-laws, one for the regulation of the city sewerage business and the other to provide for the annual sale of properties for taxes, was the principal business before the aldermen in regular meeting last evening.

The Nippon Yūsen Kaisha liner Kanagawa Maru, Captain Wai, brought news from Japan this morning that not more than two ships now operated in the transpacific business will be seen here probably for another year.

Considerable has been said about the final match between the Capitol and New Westminster lacrosse teams played on Saturday afternoon at the exhibition grounds in the Royal City. It is doubtful, however, if all local sportsmen yet realize the exceptional importance of this struggle. The result, a win for the visitors by the narrow margin of 5-4 goals, demonstrated indisputably the superiority of eastern over western players, as exponents of the Canadian national game.

Loose Ends

A man in Cologne invents a machine—which promises interesting results—and precipitates a full column of utter gloom.

By H. B. W.

A MAN in Cologne has invented an apparatus which, when fitted to an automobile, preserves its equilibrium so perfectly that it can be driven around corners and over bumps as fast as down a smooth straight-away.

At which there is great rejoicing, for this safety device, of course, will increase speed and add immeasurably to the dangers of motoring. And it is as good an excuse as any other for saying some things which should be said about the way things are going.

THE WAY things are going are enough, surely, to make us think, if we hadn't lost our faculty for doing so. But at least the more intelligent of us can wonder at them in a dim sort of way. We cannot help wondering, then, where all this mechanical progress, like the latest device from Cologne, is going to lead us.

THE TROUBLE with us is that we are still blinded by the novelty of machinery. We have had it less than a hundred years and we still gaze at and fall down and worship it, as before a mad god. We haven't got to the stage yet of suspecting it. We have come to the point of suspecting everything else, including all the laws of nature and all the gods of our ancestors, but machinery we never doubt. It is too new. Whenever a new invention appears, whether it be a device for increasing the speed of automobiles or for destroying whole races in the next war, we clap our hands and shout with delight like little children with a new toy (even though the toy turns out to be a stick of dynamite). It is only when forty-eight gallant fellows are burned up in one of our new inventions that a few daring souls begin to wonder if it is all worth while, whether we shall be any happier because we can cross the Atlantic in two days by dirigible instead of a week by steamer.

* * *

THE TROUBLE, of course, is not with invention, but with the use of it. We have learned to unconsciously imagine forces upon the world, but we haven't learned to control them. Instead of directing, harnessing them for our own happiness, in such things as the radio and the electrical washing machine, we permit them to such uses as cannons and poison gases. We are small boys driving a high-powered car, and it is out of control.

* * *

WE CREATE A MACHINE. It alters our civilization, creates a hundred new problems for our governments. While we are still struggling with these, and are still far from mastering them, we invent another machine with a hundred more problems in its trail. We never catch up to our inventions; we can't even employ the men whom our inventions displace in industry. After a while someone may begin to suspect that all is not progress which increases speed and makes life more distressing, and then it will not be treason to doubt the wisdom of every machine.

* * *

PERHAPS IN THAT FAR-OFF DAY A MORE sensible world will decide to stop inventing new machines for a hundred years or so, until the human race is capable of operating the ones it has, without being mangled in the process. If some external force (like the which used to be called Providence) in a less civilized day, would suddenly stop us where we are, stop the development of another new kind of machine, and give us a chance to find ourselves, to sort ourselves out, a great nob of relief would leave from the tired heart of humanity. Men for the first time since the coming of the steam engine would have time to investigate and find out what all this queer business called civilization is about. Perhaps out of our explorations we could solve some of our problems before we were overwhelmed with new ones. Perhaps we could make our present system of life livable before we advanced to another one. Perhaps we might even rediscover our immortal soul, lost somewhere in the vast workshops of science.

* * *

BUT THAT IS NOT THE END OF THIS STRANGE BUSINESS. It is not that we have failed merely to keep our minds and our talents abreast of our machines. We have actually gone backwards. Our machines have not only got ahead of our mentality; they have warped it. If you want to see what I mean (which, I admit, is doubtful), watch the next traffic jam on one of our downtown streets. I watched one not an hour ago on Broad Street, and it plunged me into deepest gloom. There, in the middle of the road, a poor old flivver was hopelessly stalled, while its unhappy driver, a man with a large corporation, totally unsuited to such work, was vainly trying to crank it. Behind the flivver seven swagger cars quickly piled up and were unable to pass.

themselves miserable for the rest of the day.

TOGETHER I suppose they were delayed about three minutes, for the flivver started to go after a few more cranks. You would have thought from the fury of the severe driving traffic that they had been held up all day on the way to catch a train. All of them, no doubt, waited four or five hours between the time they arose and the time they went to bed without the slightest compunction, and if they had saved those three minutes on Broad Street they would have wasted them somewhere else.

BUT DO NOT blame them, poor fel lows. They are the product of our times. They have learned from childhood to race through life so that they may have more leisure to enjoy it; and having leisure they have lost the faculty for enjoying it. They are typical citizens of a world which is saving more time every day, and yet, the most curious paradox of the ages, has less time for leisure.

THE TROUBLE, of course, is not with the use of invention, but with the way we use it. We have learned to control them, but in Second Chronicles xv. 21, it says: "If ye forsake Me, He will forsake you." but also Christ himself says: "He that cometh to Me will in no wise cast out."

"ONE ANXIOUS TO HELP."

UNEMPLOYMENT

To the Editor:—In view of the very serious state of unemployment to-day, I wonder if you are not thinking of those who as leaders are trying to help our nation, and people here; to some it seems that these things may be allowed to lead people to give God first place, and this is one of all that can help. So many people who only go to God now, come very occasionally if not daily, and so miss one chance of helping towards His work, yet seem hurt and surprised if He does not supply every need, they surely forget the conditions in His word. We are told: "Ask and you shall receive," but in Second Chronicles xv. 21, it says: "If ye have not, ask not," but in Second Chronicles xv. 21, it says: "If ye forsake Him, He will forsake you." but also Christ himself says: "He that cometh to Me will in no wise cast out."

"UNIMPORTANT PEOPLE"

To the Editor:—During the tour of members of the recent medical convention a luncheon was given in the Hotel Vancouver by the Canadian Club, Rotary Club, and Medical Association of that city, in honor of the visitors. The press reports of this proceeding gave prominence to words uttered by the physician to the King of England: "There is no man in the front rank of distinguished physicians who has declared his belief that the practice of vivisection has not been of benefit to mankind."

This sentence, written plainly, seems to imply that unless a medical man believes vivisection is of value to humanity, he cannot stand in the front rank of distinguished physicians. The statement which any well-informed person might challenge.

Queen Victoria, herself an opponent of animal experiments, had a physician named Sir Thomas Watson, at one time president of the Royal College of Physicians. He was considered in his day a man of distinction, and it is said:

DUTY ON GLASS NOW REVOKED

Federal Government Takes Action When Price of Commodity Is Doubled

No Active Steps Taken to Manufacture Glass in Canada

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Increased duties on window glass approved at the last session of Parliament, have been revoked. This action constitutes the first definite step of this kind by the government to protect the consumer against enhanced price of commodities, the duties of which were increased. The action, according to an official statement, was taken by Sir George F. Clark, Prime Minister, yesterday, following complaints that the prices of ordinary window glass to the consumer have been doubled since the special session of Parliament.

Inquiry by the government. It is stated, resulted in the conclusion that no active steps have been taken to produce glass in Canada by those having factories here.

Duties on window glass now return to what they were before the special session of Parliament, namely, 7½ per cent under the British Tariff, 12½ per cent under the intermediate rate, the same under the general tariffs. The schedules approved at the last session divided the commodity into classes and fixed specific rates which were a great deal higher than those which had been effective.

Strenuous debate followed the introduction of the new tariff schedules into the House of Commons. Premier Bennett read to the House a letter from the Canadian Libby-Owens Sheet Glass Company Limited, in which that company undertook to take immediate steps to bring their factories into operation if the increased duties were granted. This was to be no increased price, a number of undertakings from manufacturers declared.

Prime Minister Bennett said if the prices were increased duties would come down. The government had the power to reduce the duties whenever it felt that the undertaking had not been taken.

PERLEY'S STATEMENT

Sir George Perley issued the following statement:

"During the special session when the increase in the tariff was under discussion, the government stated repeatedly that the government would not permit consumers to be exploited or charged unfair prices, and that if anything of that sort were attempted, the government would exercise its power to reduce the rates of duty. Complaints have been made that the government has allowed the price of ordinary window glass to consumers has been doubled since the special session, and after inquiry the government had learned that no active steps have so far been taken to produce glass in Canada by those having factories."

"Under the circumstances, the Prime Minister was communicated with by cable and he replied stating again definitely that glass users must not be exploited and that therefore the duty should be reduced to being the only way to protect them under the present conditions."

"The cabinet has therefore passed an order to the effecting forth that it has become apparent that considerable time will elapse before producers in Canada of ordinary window glass will be able to supply the demand, and in the meantime it is right and conducive to the public good that the legitimate consumer, the community and the industry thereof in Canadian manufacturing should be protected, and that the duty on common and colorless window glass under item 31 shall hereafter be the rates applicable prior to the special session, viz., 7½ per cent preference, 12½ per cent intermediate and 18½ per cent general."

"This action is taken in accordance with the settled policy of the government as stated many times definitely by the Prime Minister himself, that we wish to encourage in every way the production of everything that can be reasonably produced in Canada, but at the same time protect the consumer from unfair prices."

FIRE TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Campaign Points to Heavy Yearly Loss Throughout Canada

The annual fire loss in the Dominion of Canada is so enormous that the Dominion Fire Commissioner at Ottawa has yearly to remind the citizens through the press of this waste and to ask their support in eliminating the cause of many of the fires, over seventy-five per cent of which could have been prevented if more care had been taken.

The month of October 5 to 11, inclusive, has been set aside as "Fire Prevention Week" and it is a nation-wide movement to cut down to a minimum fire that originate either directly or indirectly through carelessness and ignorance.

These fires are preventable through the use of reasonable precautions on the part of responsible individuals, a big majority of the fires would never occur.

$47,500,000 LOSS

In the year 1929, Canada's fire loss was $47,500,000 and is paid by the population—almost $130,000 daily. In Canada the annual loss exceeds $4.80 per head of the population compared to European countries where the average annual loss by fire is less than thirty-three cents.

The motive behind the campaign of "Fire Prevention Week" is good and sound, so the effort then carried out to a successful end must also be good and to the benefit of all concerned, and to accomplish this result, citizens are asked to keep around their premises and clean up.

The Commissioner states that there is no reason for a back yard full of broken bits of packing cases; a base board full of old papers, boxes and ashes; a barn full of empty cases, packing material and old barrels that you will never use. All the wrapping paper used in the newspaper comes at times, blow around on road to incinerator. Is your attic full of broken chairs, sofa stuffings, and old carpet strips you will never use?

The citizens are earnestly requested to contact the Victoria and District Fire Agents' Association to help the campaign by removing any of the above fire hazards from their homes and thereby "prevent" future fires. A phone message to the Employment Service of Canada, Phone 184, will bring you a reliable man who will help you to get rid of the fire hazards mentioned.

CATARHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE RELIEVED

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY THAT CALLS FOR NO UGLY TRUMPETS, PHONES OR OTHER INSTRUMENTS

To have catarrhal deafness is very annoying and embarrassing. People who are deaf in that way are generally missing many of their sensations. And yet many catarrhal deaf folks carry around instruments that call attention to their deformity. There are people who are deaf in one ear who suffer from head noises or who are actually deaf from catarrhal trouble, will be glad to know of a simple treatment that can be had for the house. The cost is a cent cost that is really quite efficient in relieving the disagreeable deafness and head noises caused by catarrhal trouble.

Take a small dropper and one ounce of Parmin (double strength). Take this home and put it into a simple syrup made of ¼ cup of hot water and a little ordinary sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This treatment could be toxic action to due the inflammation of the middle ear, that a catarrhal condition would be likely to cause, and with the inflammation gone the distressing head noises, headaches, dizziness, etc., that often follow. Ear infections, earaches should gradually disappear. Anyone who suffers from catarrhal deafness or head noises should give Parmin a trial. It is pleasant to take and is quite inexpensive.

POLA NEGRI SEEKS DIVORCE

Movie Actress Files Suit Against Prince Serge
Mdivani

Paris Oct. 10.—Pola Negri, motion picture actress, filed suit for divorce here to-day from her husband, Prince Serge Mdivani.

The screen star went personally to the Palace of Justice this afternoon, accompanied by two attorneys, and made application for legal separation from Prince Mdivani before the president of the Seine tribunal. The reconciliation meeting, at which under French law the judge attempts to reunite estranged couples, will be held toward the end of the month.

A statement upon which she asked for a divorce was not made public.

Pola Negri filed action for divorce in June, 1929. She and the prince, to whom she was married in May, 1927, were re-united in Paris last December on a Friday, the thirteenth, which she declared was her "lucky day."

Pola was born in Poland. She made her theatrical debut in a play of Sudekman and after a few years won a leading role in Max Reinhardt's "Sumerun."

NOW IN GERMAN FILMS

Under Ernest Lubitsch she played opposite Emil Jannings in "Passion," scoring a success that swept her into the limelight. However, she had married Count Dembski, a Polish nobleman, but divorced him after a year. In Hollywood she was reported engaged to Charles Chaplin but her marriage to Prince Mdivani put an end to that report.

Pola went to Berlin for a visit in February and there encountered difficulties with her German theatrical agent who forced payment of $12,000 for securing her American contracts. He attached her jewels but she recovered them under a writ. She returned last spring to the German films.

FIRST GARDEN IN B.C. IN 1811

Women Learn of Agricultural Progress of Province From J. B. Munro

The first garden in British Columbia was at old Fort St. James, where Daniel William Harmon planted vegetables in 1811. The first potatoes grown in the territory which is now embraced by British Columbia were at Fort Fraser, in 1821. The first garden was planted at Fort George.

These interesting facts were recorded in the address on the history of agricultural enterprise in this province given by J. B. Munro, B.S.A., Deputy Minister of Agriculture, at the meeting of the Women's Educational Auxiliary yesterday afternoon. Mrs. F. W. Laing presided.

FIRST FLOUR MILL

The speaker recalled many interesting facts culled from old diaries and journals in the Archives, among others that the first flour mill was established at Fort Alexandra, and this mill supplied most of the immediate community settlements at Kamloops, Chilliwack and elsewhere on the Fraser.

The history of the introduction of horses into British Columbia fitted into the story. Mr. Munro noted that the first horses known to have been brought into the country by Indians who acted as couriers in the Soda Creek district. The first dairy cows arrived at Fort Langley in 1829 and the first beef cattle reached Victoria in the early forties, and Mr. Munro pointed out that progress in this branch of agriculture today, the combined herds of the province running into several hundreds of thousands.

The late William Ellis, a former Victoria resident, is given the credit of establishing the first flour mill in the city of Victoria, what is now the site of Penticton. Mr. Munro was warmly thanked by the gathering for his address.

Authors Hear Of Conditions In Film Industry

Two addresses of particular interest to members of the writing craft were heard yesterday evening in Victoria College at the October meeting of the Victoria and Islands Branch, Canadian Society of Authors. The first, by Mr. E. C. Simcox, gave an account of the "Building of the British Film Industry" and Major J. Gordon Smith of the Provincial Bureau of Information, of the Caravan Through British Columbia."

Colonel Gandy, who has recently returned from an eighteen months' sojourn in Hollywood, where he was acting in advisory capacity in the production of some films, and otherwise studying Hollywood methods, spoke upon "The Building of a National Art, and there is much to be done to overcome the foreign influence which is holding down our art," said the speaker.

Major Smith received a cordial welcome as past president of the Victoria and Islands Branch and his tour through central British Columbia was followed with much interest. He outlined the ideal of a roadway from the Southern Americas to the tundras of Alaska.

Mrs. Ebb-Canavan, as vice-president, took the chair and the speakers were Dr. A. O. MacRae, president; and Dr. J. K. Unsworth.

Miss Perry and Donald A. Fraser gave the details of a prize competition in which young children will compete in historical essays during Canadian Book Week, November 1 to 8.

Albert Russell, accompanied by Miss Jessie Smith, sang two solos.

Watermelons were native to the continent of Africa and were not introduced into America until after the time of Columbus.

YOUR BABY and MINE by MARY MEYER ELLED

Mrs. Elled will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

BABIES DO SURVIVE BAD FEEDING, BUT PAY SAFE!

We often marvel at the feedings some children survive. It would seem that the mother were testing the child's ability by offering almost anything edible, however indigestible or unsuited to a baby's diet.

A recent letter from a horrified neighbor outlined the diet that was being fed a two-month-old child of her acquaintance. In addition to getting a formula that would be excessive for a six-month-old child she had given him candy drops, because the mother had heard that lime was good for babies! was spending most of his daytime hours sucking on a nipple filled with honey and coked, and had already been regaled with pop and mashed potatoes. Two months old.

TOO BAD FOR BABY

If the child has the constitution capable of living after such mismanagement the mother will be more than ever convinced that babies can be given anything. If he dies, she will probably plausibly insist that he was called by the Lord.

To prevent mothers from making use of taboos foods, it usually avoids the use of lime. But we get such constant pleas to tell mothers what foods are unsuitable for children that we are appending a list. We trust that mothers will read this carefully and remember that for various reasons these

This is a comparatively small list. When there are so many fruits and vegetables, simple cakes, cookies and puddings, there is no reason for lime to trouble a baby.

Do not give young child hot rolls, sausages, goose, duck, brains, kidneys or sweetbreads, salt or canned fish, dried meat, or in general any kind of fried meat.

Do not give a young child hot rolls, sausages, goose, duck, brains, kidneys or sweetbreads, salt or canned fish, dried meat, or in general any kind of fried meat.

Do not give rich preserves or rich puddings, hard cheese, pies, pastry, salads (except with oil and lemon dressing), nuts or dried fruits.

Do not give tea, coffee, chocolate, cider, pop, gingerale or beer.

Do not give green fruits, or ripe fruits, or large amounts of any fruits containing quantities of seeds.

Do not give sweet corn, or canned biscuits, soups or beans (except when cooked with soap) and well strained cucumbers, radishes, or pickles of any kind whatsoever.

Arrangements for the fifteenth annual children's fancy dress ball were made at the meeting of the Navy Chapter, at the Empress Hotel, where Mrs. A. D. Whittier, first vice-regent, presiding in the absence of the regent, Mrs. Mortimer Appleby. It was decided to hold the ball at the Empress Hotel on December 29, and an innovation will be the awarding of prizes for the best costumes in various classes.

The chapter has decided to "adopt" a school at Likely, in the Peace River country, and will send a library and magazines for the use of the children. One hundred patriotic calendar have been ordered by the chapter for distribution at Christmas.

Mr. J. H. Gillespie will be asked to represent the chapter at the semi-annual meeting at Burnaby this month.

Wednesday next, commencing at 8 o'clock in the Nurses' Home at St. Joseph's Hospital, by the Alpha Chapter of the Soroptimist Club, the proceeds to go toward the new scholarship fund which has just been established. This fund is entirely independent of the annual bursary given by the alumnae to the graduating students ranking highest in her class in the principal examination for registered nurses.

During the three months abroad he visited many historic spots in England and Scotland.

Visits were made to Oxford, Liverpool and Windermere. During his stay in London Mr. Campbell attended the session of the British parliament when Winston Churchill made his speech on naval limitation.

The Hague, Cologne, Rhine Valley, Swiss Alps, Paris and many other places of interest were also visited by Mr. Campbell.

On returning to Canada Mr. Campbell visited his old home in Prince Edward Island.

He referred to a ruling by Mr. Justice Logie at Hamilton that the court had no jurisdiction in either matter.

Mr. Woodsorth stated that the Dominion, previous to handing over to Ontario the jurisdiction in divorce cases, held no right to award alimony or decide custody of children.

He mentioned that the Dominion could not have overruled the provincial laws, but stated that matters of alimony or child custody were already under provincial jurisdiction.

"Co-operation of the rights previously possessed by the province of Ontario with those handed over by the Dominion on the passage of the Ontario Divorce Act," Mr. Woodsorth said to Mr. Woodsorth.

The member for Winnipeg North Centre considered that the lack of jurisdiction referred to by Mr. Justice Logie was in no way a reflection on the transference of rights following the enactment of the new divorce law this year.

Strong Victoria Aggregation Will Oppose Vancouver

THE "HEAVYWEIGHT" SITUATION is attracting so little attention this year that there practically isn't any such thing. You can't have an "aggregation" without public interest, and the big boys certainly aren't doing anything very startling. Max Schmeling's hopping back to Germany and going into hiding after each fight is about as interesting as one of these modern tree sitters.

Schmeling got a cheap championship. He has done very little to earn the people of the world think he's a champion, and shows no desire to do more. The German might be a good heavyweight fighter if he'd fight. What he needs is to be jammed through a weekly fight programme in order to polish himself up again. Fighting a fight a year, or less, isn't learning anything, isn't going ahead, and isn't getting anywhere. If he fights again and meets a real up and coming fighter, he will most likely take an awful licking. It's really a shame to see a fellow of Schmeling's native ability mismanaged out of the picture as he has been. *

It would have been better for Schmeling if he had played the game with his heart in it. He wasn't getting much money at the start, but he was getting fights. Fighting once a month he might have earned that heavyweight title and become a real champion. Well, perhaps he didn't want fights. He seems satisfied now to be what might be called a joke champion. *

A little pep, not much, was injected into the heavyweight ranks the other night when Jimmie Foote, Boston heavyweight, defeated Primo Carnera in a hard-fought defeat since he started his tour of the United States. However, the little flurry caused by this upset will soon die down as Carnera is due to sail this week for his home in sunny Italy. We surmise he has to go back and serve his required five years in Mussolini's army. *

Stribling who has been laying off presumably to strengthen a bad hand that wasn't of much use in his fights with Von Foss and Scott, although he knocked them both out in a hurry with the other, didn't sign for a bout with E.O. Christner, Akron heavyweight. Stribling has beaten Christner a couple of times before, and should have no trouble doing it again.

The unfortunate end of the Bear-Campbell bout in California stirred up all sorts of complications, including a grand jury investigation of things connected with boxing. Incidentally, it stirred up more gossip and rumor than facts. A man who never saw a boxing bout and knew nothing about boxing related a street conversation he had heard, in which she understood Bear's father, to say Bear would "foul, cripple or kill" Campbell, and that no matter what Bear did, Boxing Commissioner Traung would not be summoned to New York to fix his signature to a contract to manage the amount-call to arms.

The turnover in management will be lighter this year than usual. One change already has been made. George Hornsey succeeded Joseph V. McCarron as head of the Chicago Cubes. Artie McCarthy, however, is not expected to remain long in the ranks of the unemployed, for when the excitement of the world series has died away, in all probability he will be summoned to New York to fix his signature to a contract to manage the amount-call to arms.

The Boston Red Sox are temporarily without a manager, but President Bob Quinn has his eye on a prospect and may introduce him to the fans at any minute.

Two catchers have been frequently mentioned in recent days, with the Red Sox' Billie—Steve O'Neill, formerly of Cleveland and St. Louis, who has piloted the Toronto Maple Leafs for two years, and Harold "Muddy" Ruell, an American League regular for twelve years and the last eight with Washington.

School Children After Aquatic Titles Saturday

Fast Races Looked For As Young Water Stars Seek Honors

Hundreds of Spectators Expected to Fill Crystal Garden for Annual Event; Diving and Relay Races Will Be Features; Former Champions Will Defend Titles; Meet Starts at 7:30 o'clock.

School swimming champions of the lower Island will gather at the Crystal Garden to-morrow evening to attempt to uphold the honors they won last year against the best of this year's competition in the seventh annual school children's gala held under the auspices of the C.G.S.C. Last Saturday district representatives were chosen in elimination heats and now only the pick of the lower Island schools are left. Keen competition is expected when the young aquatic stars plunge off the starting end and thresh their ways to the finish. The first event will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Hundreds of parents and supporters are expected to attend.

In the heats last week the youngsters showed plenty of form and promise to make to-morrow's events some of the closest ever held here. The standard of swimming and diving has shown a rapid improvement in the city, and new records are looked for in many races.

Championship Lacrosse Game Is Called Off

Owing to the fact that Mainland officials were of the opinion it was too late in the season to play the match, the lacrosse final between Richmond and Victoria, A.B.A.-B.C. British Columbia Senior "B" championship, at the Royal Athletic Park to-morrow afternoon, has been called off. Richmond won the first game of the series played on the Mainland several weeks ago.

When Cardinals Won Their First Game

Young Firpo Wins Battle With Uhlan

Wallace, Idaho, Oct. 10.—Young Firpo Burke, Idaho, lightweight, won a ten-round decision from Red Uhlan, Oak Bay, in the main event of a boxing card here yesterday evening.

Uhlan fought cautiously throughout and missed many blows. Ringiders gave Firpo a clear margin in the first eight rounds, with the ninth a draw and the tenth went to Uhlan, who staged a last desperate rally.

Competitors have been putting in considerable practice on the springboards of diving at the Garden.

As far as individuals are concerned Don Wilson, Brentwood; Hager, University School, and Harry Halkin, Victoria, High, appear to be the outstanding challengers in the boys' division.

A fair standard of diving is expected from the boys as well as girls.

The boys qualified by their performances last Friday, while the girls were sent right through to the finals when it was found there were not enough to warrant eliminations.

Competitors have been putting in considerable practice on the springboards of diving at the Garden.

As far as individuals are concerned

Don Wilson, Brentwood; Hager, University School, and Harry Halkin, Victoria, High, appear to be the outstanding challengers in the boys' division.

HARNESSED HEAT GIVES PROGRESS; UNHARNESSED IT IS GREAT DESTROYER

Barring war, fire is the most destructive element in modern life, but it is also tremendously constructive; without controlled heat, industry on the gigantic scale that exists to-day would be unknown; the automobile, for example, and covering skyscrapers whose skeletons are of fabricated steel, could never have been erected; bridges such as span our widest rivers could not have been built; the automobiles would be unknown; telegraphic and telegraphic communication never would have come to pass, nor could the wireless stations used to entertain and instruct the multitude. In fact, were it not for fire under intelligent control homes and other structures could not be heated, life in the northern zones would be too impossible to withstand during the winter months, and most of the world population would reside in the tropics or semi-tropics.

Transportation by rail depends entirely upon harnessed heat for its means of propulsion and its roadways, as well as for its safety. Even wooden structures nowadays are held together with nails and bolts made from melted iron ore. The arts, too, are dependent upon fire. In fact, this element affects so many phases of our life that we have ceased to think of its universal utility.

But fire in its destructive aspect presents an entirely different picture. When it gets beyond control, as it is prone to do, it often sweeps in terrible waves from one building to another until a whole section of a city (or perhaps several sections) is reduced to smoke-black ruins. Such immense, devastating fires are known as conflagrations. No city is immune.

When fire breaks out in a crowded room, give the alarm quietly and keep the people calm.

People who smoke in bed are too green to burn, but their beds are not.

Gasoline and Fire Are Two Close Friends

Remember that you must take no chances with gasoline; it is one of the most dangerous explosives in common use.

It must always be kept in tightly-fastened cans; never in glass bottles. It should never be uncovered within the house nor at any point where its fumes can travel to an open flame, a live coal or a spark.

Do not use it for cleaning if you can get a safe cleaning operation.

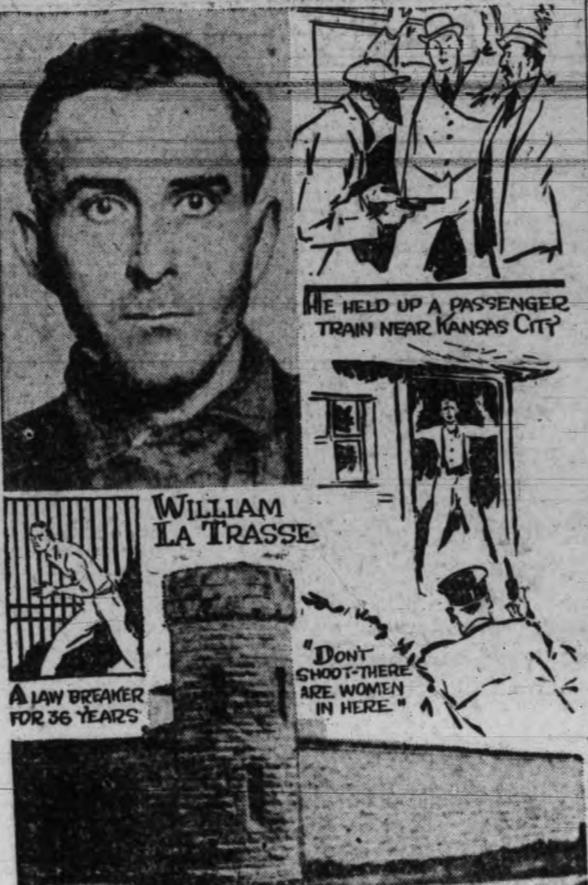

Gasoline in quantity should be kept in underground tanks.

No one should be allowed to smoke in a gas station.

No one should be allowed to smoke in an automobile while its gasoline tank is being filled.

Do not use water upon a gasoline or coal-oil fire; use a chemical extinguisher, or else throw earth or sand upon it.

Famous Convict Seeks Freedom, Convinced After 36 Years Crime Doesn't Pay

William LaTrasse is pictured, above, with some of his exploits. Below, a corner of the Kansas penitentiary wall and the gate through which he once escaped by hiding under a coal sack.

William LaTrasse, known to an earlier generation as one of the most daring and dangerous train robbers and outlaws of the west, is now serving his one-simply as a convict in the Kansas State Prison, wants his freedom again—convinced after thirty-six years of experience that crime doesn't pay.

LaTrasse is now close to fifty years old. Since he was fourteen he has been fighting the law—either breaking it or being broken by it. He is still trying to beat the law and realizing that his one ambition is to take up the trade of repairing shoes, which he learned in prison, he has asked for a parole. The state parole board will hear his plea October 11.

Most of the officials who worked to end his days have by now either died or retired from office. Public sentiment is not as strong against him now as it used to be. Officials of Kansas City, Kan., where his most daring exploits were perpetrated, have not decided whether to oppose his application for freedom.

CAREER BEGAN AT FOURTEEN

LaTrasse grew up back of the yards in Kansas City, Kan., a young rascal whose only playground was the street. At fourteen he got into his first serious trouble, slugging a man in a street brawl and injuring him so badly that he later died. The boy then fled to Texas.

Before the year was out, LaTrasse was arrested while trying to stage a highway robbery in St. Joseph, Mo. St. Joseph authorities sent him back to Kansas City, and he was sentenced to the penitentiary for ten years.

After he had served seven years of his term, LaTrasse was released. He came back to Kansas City and indulged in a series of holdups and store robberies. Efforts to catch him were futile, however.

TURNS TRAIN ROBBER

Then on Christmas Eve in 1910, LaTrasse tied a black handkerchief over his face, took a revolver in his hand and climbed on the rear platform of a Missouri Pacific passenger train that was just entering the outlying yards in Kansas City en route for Omaha.

He methodically went through the cars, barking "Hands up, everybody" and collecting the money and valuables of the passengers. The trainman tried to interfere and got a bullet in the shoulder. LaTrasse then opened a vestibule door and jumped off when the train slowed down at a crossing.

Despite his marksmanship, he had been recognized and for days later he was arrested at his home. He insisted on his innocence and none of the loot was ever recovered, but he was convicted after a dozen people had identified him, and was sentenced to a term of ten to twenty-one years in prison.

Months later LaTrasse bobbed up in Chicago, where he was arrested for highway robbery. Illinois authorities sent him back to Kansas and he was lodged in the state prison.

This time his imprisonment proved a little more effective. Kansas managed to keep him locked up until 1915, when he and four other convicts escaped from prison by hiding under coal carts that were being taken from the yard.

For a year LaTrasse enjoyed his freedom. Then he was taken part in a holdup in Chicago, was caught and was sent back to Kansas. This time Kansas authorities seemed to have got the neck of keeping him behind the bars a little better; they managed to hold on to him until 1924.

In that year his mother became seriously ill, and some kind-hearted officials gave LaTrasse permission to go to her home for a short visit. LaTrasse forgot to come back.

Police might not have caught him had he not broken his own long-standing rule—"Never tangle with a woman and you'll beat the law." He had met a woman fugitive, a Kansas City girl. Falling in love with her, he joined her, her brother, the brother's wife and two other companions on a trip to the new oil fields near Eldorado, Kan.

There the police discovered the group hiding in a shack. A gun battle developed when the officers surrounded the place, and one of his companions was shot dead. Then La-

Why BOVRIL prevents that Sinking Feeling

Why is it that one has such a fine feeling of buoyancy after drinking a cup of Bovril? Modern research has shown that in addition to proteins of exceptionally high food value, beef has certain unique powers of stimulating cellular activity—that is to say of stimulating vitality.

Bovril is the concentrated essence of this "vitality power" of beef. That is why Bovril is such a powerful stimulant and sustainer, why, in fact, "Bovril prevents that sinking feeling."

I'M five feet eight inches and weigh 210 pounds. So when I talk about underwear comfort, believe me I know! In the first place being stout I perspire more than most men—and to my mind there's only one kind of underwear that will stand that continued excess perspiration—and come out of the laundry tub soft as down—that's Stanfield's.

Another thing, Stanfield's can't be made to shrink. If you're carrying a little extra poundage think that over! There isn't one of us who hasn't had a suit of underwear that fit like a glove when we first wore it—but which looked and felt like little brother's when it came back from the wash.

But why go on telling you about my experience with Stanfield's—about buttons that don't pull off—cuffs that fit snug forever—shoulder seams that stay where they belong. All you have to do is climb into one suit of it—then you'll know what real underwear comfort is.

So go to your dealer today—and ask him to show you this comfortable underwear. One glance and you'll see it's the best underwear value ever offered—but you'll never know how comfortable underwear can be, until you put it on.

There's a style and weight to meet every need—and a price to suit every purse.

Our new preacher is making himself unpopular. He keeps telling us members that we ought to watch our own conduct instead of criticizing other people."

For purposes of comparison with the
1,000 Smith College girls from 1926 to 1928,

The girl of to-day is an athletic person who has participated in outdoor games from early childhood, who has not known the restraint of heavy, tight clothing, and who has had for at least fifteen years an adequate diet.

The college girl of to-day is a five or forty years ago represented an entirely different type, as far as concerned her ambitions, the hygiene of her life, and her general character.

Recently a study was made of the physical measures of 1,000 Smith College students for purposes of comparison with a similar group entering college twenty-five to forty years ago and that the median height was greater than those of the girls examined from twenty-five to forty years ago and that the median weight was also greater than the weight listed in the comparative studies.

For example, Smith College girls graduated from 1926 to 1928 averaged five feet eight inches in height, whereas girls entering the other colleges that have been mentioned were found to be of average height, as varied from five feet six inches to five feet seven inches, or an average of about five feet two inches in height.

The median weights of Smith College girls entered at sixteen and graduated at twenty were 130 and 129 pounds;

the median weights at entrance and graduation of eighteen-year-old students were 126 and 123 pounds; of nineteen-year-old students 126 and 123 pounds, and twenty-year-old students 124 and 128.

In contrast with these figures, girls of an earlier period had median weights from 100 to 110 pounds. Obviously the hygiene, the diet, the exercise, rest and other factors of modern living are making a better type of girl physically than existed twenty-five to forty years ago.

For purposes of comparison with the
1,000 Smith College girls from 1926 to 1928, everybody doing a hundred and one things they were not doing a month ago. Why? Because it's autumn.

That is what this boulevard man
"out our way" said this morning. He's been picking up leaves and knocking down horse chestnuts from the last week and you cannot kid him. He knows that summer disappeared with the booming fog horns of last year.

Then, of course, the man next door was shouting for the auto driver last night to stop. He was tired of cleaning the screen door every time he came home and, anyway, what good was it doing? he asked his wife. So the screen went down to the cellar for the winter. Most of the flies have gone to bed.

And besides, the beauty slumbers every day. She's been breaking every morning by the ranks of wood and coal trucks bringing the winter supply. When the nights are long and cold, she's been keeping the house warm with the gas fire.

The fact that stores are displaying the latest fall fashions does not mean a thing. They would do that anyway, whether the sun was shining or the rain was pouring. Just the same, it seems to indicate that the autumn weather has taken wings and filmy dresses are no longer comfortable.

In the back lot the other day the kids were playing football, despite the fact that the world's baseball series was not over yet, and that does mean something.

But what causes all this? Why must people live in line and do these things together all the time of the year? Why must women buy new outfits? Why must everyone carrying an overcoat, either on his back or his arm? Why is it dark when you go home at 6 o'clock? Why, in fact, is

ANNIVERSARY OF BIRTH OF CHINA'S REPUBLIC MARKED

Local Chinese Honor Sun Yat Sen To-day; Thousand Children Parade To-night

Chinatown is to-day celebrating the nineteenth anniversary of the birth of the Chinese Republic by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, and the setting up of a Nationalist Government at Nanking. A holiday was declared both in the offices and schools. Arrangements for the celebrations have been conducted by G. P. Simon, president of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, it being the first time in Chinatown that never before have the arrangements been so elaborate, and that great optimism and enthusiasm is held for the future of the Republic, which they assert is never now over.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, great numbers of school children gathered in the assembly hall of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, to listen to addresses by representatives of all the Chinese societies. The hall was gaily decorated and the speakers who dealt briefly with the affairs of the republic, were enthusiastically applauded.

The climax of the day will be the large parade, which commences at 8 o'clock to-night from the offices of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, 639 Fisgard Street. This will be the first parade ever staged in Victoria, with a number of about 1,000 from three different schools and from kindergartens of the Anglican and Presbyterian creeds will march the streets of the downtown area to the strains of Chinese music played by a children's band. They will carry brightly-colored lanterns and flags.

NEWS IN BRIEF

W. Roberts was fined $50 in City Police Court yesterday for permitting drunkards on his premises.

The Department of Public Works has called for tenders for construction of a one-room school at Cobble Hill. Bids are returnable by noon on October 27.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon the Zoning Board of Appeal dealt with six applications against rulings in the zoning by-law.

A pre-Communion service and re-commencement of new members will be held this evening at the First United Church. Rev. W. A. Guy of the Oak Bay United Church will preach.

The Real Estate Board of Victoria to-day appointed T. J. Goodlack chairman of a sports committee to make arrangements for future sports activities of the board.

A stock and feeder sale, planned for Kamloops on October 29, has been cancelled owing to lack of time for making arrangements. It was learned at the Government Buildings.

Hans Kjellin pleaded guilty in City Police Court this morning to a charge of being intoxicated in a public place and was fined $50 or ten days. It was a second offence.

"The First Secret of Mental Science" is the subject of a public lecture to be given by Ross Humble, metaphysical teacher, in the Progressive Thought Temple, Pandora Avenue, to-night at 8 o'clock.

Charles Bland, charged with assaulting Robert Kasper, appeared before Magistrate George Jay this afternoon and was remanded to jail for Thursday afternoon. Bland was arrested by Saanich police.

Fifty tickets for admittance to the Provincial Court Out Court were presented to the Victoria Real Estate Board by the manager through the board's secretary at its luncheon to-day.

Pending the outcome of the investigation, the author will continue to be present at the appearance of Lou W. Tweddle from the Vancouver boat last Monday, Leslie J. Martin, sales manager of Home Oil Distributors Limited in Vancouver, has assumed charge of the company's affairs here.

A potato top measuring nine feet eleven inches in height has been grown by J. A. Stewart, 760 Esquimalt Road. Five potatoes were grown on this plant, each weighing from one and a half to two pounds, the total weight being eight pounds. The grower attributes the hugeness of the top to the use of seaweed as fertilizer.

An order for consolidation of three Supreme Court actions, Arbutnott versus J. R. Green, Arbutnott versus Green and Consumers' Coal Company Limited, and Arbutnott versus Green and C. Mitchell, was sought from Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in chambers on behalf of Mr. Green. For the plaintiff, John Arbutnott, C. M. O'Halloran objected that the actions were separate issues. The matter was deferred until Tuesday morning.

Judgment for the plaintiff in Schlesinger case was passed yesterday afternoon in County Court by Judge P. S. Lampman, the action being for monthly payments under a separation agreement which was followed by a divorce.

The court held that remarriage of the wife did not affect the agreement upon remarriage. The separation agreement provided for payment to the wife of $750, and also twenty-one monthly payments of $60 each, which sum would have to be paid.

Mr. Martha Ada Harrison, wife of William E. Harrison of Orchard Way, Saanich, passed away in Vancouver yesterday afternoon, at 4 p.m. She was born at Rotham, Kent, England, and is survived by her husband, one daughter, and three sons. The funeral will be held from the B.C. Funeral Chapel Monday at 10:30 o'clock, and interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Funeral services for the late Evan Andrew Burnett, who passed away yesterday morning, will be held from the Sandon Funeral Home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, under the auspices of Columbia Lodge A.F. and A.M. The remains will be laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park. The late Mr. Burnett is survived by his widow, four children, John, the son of his parents, Mrs. John, and three daughters. The funeral services will be held at Trinity Church, North Saanich, on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and interment will be in the church cemetery.

The remains of Harry Noble were laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery, yesterday afternoon, the funeral taking place from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Clem Davis officiated in the presence of a large gathering of friends. The hymns sung were "Rock of Ages" and "Lead Kindly Light." Numerous beautiful floral designs were placed on the casket and hearse. The pallbearers were J. Depew, J. Carmichael, J. G. Elliott, J. Hall, F. V. Hobbs and J. L. Brooks.

REAL ESTATE

MEN TAKE UP ZONING AGAIN

D. Leeming Urges Board to Secure Drafts of Amended By-law Immediately

Considerable Feeling Expressed By Committee on Matter, Chairman States

Zoning was again discussed by the Real Estate Board at its luncheon at Spencer's to-day, when David Leeming, chairman of the board's committee on the proposed by-law, urged the body to secure drafts of the new amended version before it was definitely passed by the City Council.

Mr. Leeming said his committee had discussed the zoning situation with the council in April, and had found some constructive benefit from its reading. The members had expressed their feelings very strongly on the matter.

PROTECTION FOR OWNERS

A resolution, seeking protection for house owners against tenants who refuse to pay rent, was referred to the legislative committee of the board.

F. J. Mitchell introduced the resolution, pointing out that while the board did not wish to inflict any hardship upon the poor and needy, it wished to secure protection for the average poor family.

Under the leadership of Mr. Leeming, the committee voted to support the resolution.

In this matter the owner had received every possible consideration from the civic authorities, and the board had been instrumental in getting the law passed.

Kirkpatrick Crockett reported on a narrow street widening given at the Real Estate convention at Longview this year. He considered the paper, which revealed the actual procedure which had been followed in Portland, was directly applicable to conditions in Victoria.

The speaker explained to the board that one street widening project which had been executed in that city had necessitated the lobbing off of a large piece from a hotel.

In this matter the owner had received every possible consideration from the civic authorities, and the board had been instrumental in getting the law passed.

F. G. Purser provided the "headlines" for the meeting.

CITIZENS MUST HELP TO KEEP
CITY HEALTHY

The City Health Department is doing all in its power to make the city clean and healthy, but the earnest co-operation of the citizens is very necessary if the best results are to be obtained. "It is well known that flies carry germs of many diseases," says a bulletin from the City Health Officer. "Flies breed in decaying vegetable matter, manure and other refuse and gather disease germs wherever they have access to such material. Try to burn as much garbage as possible in your furnace or kitchen range. Wrap garbage in paper before putting it in the ash bin. The flies cannot get at it and the can is kept clean. Keep the lid on the can. Kerosene poured on garbage or manure prevents flies breeding. Screen all windows and doors with well made and properly fitting screens kept in good repair. Screen all food, especially milk. When you are purchasing foodstuffs or candy, patronize only stores where these are properly protected from flies, dust and vermin, and the premises kept clean. Wash vegetables and fruit before using. This is Health's Week. Pay attention to these things."

Conference of Chinese Army
Chiefs Possible

Nanking, Oct. 10.—With Chengchow, Honan Province, rebel stronghold, captured by government troops, and insurgents retreating westward and northward, startling reports spread yesterday evening that generalissimo and rebel leaders were planning to confer for China-wide rehabilitation.

Official circles declined to comment upon these reports. Among them was a Chinese press dispatch from Peiping stating President Chiang Kai-Shek, despite numerous difficulties, had agreed with Rebel Leader Yu Hsing to meet Chang Hauch-Liang, Manchurian dictator, at Peiping soon to discuss reconstruction measures. The story was generally believed here.

Nationalist dispatches, however, were warlike in tone. They asserted rebels had driven Feng Yu-Hsien in the sector east of Chengchow were being driven northward of the Yellow River.

West of Chengchow, Nationalists were reported forcing rebels back seeking to thrust Feng's remaining troops out of Western Honan.

Bobby
Jones
On Golf

One of the worst faults a golfer falls into involves a too energetic use of the right hand during the backstroke. There are a number of reasons why the left hand and arm should be the guiding force in taking the club back from the ball, yet in spite of all and in spite of the player's knowledge and appreciation of all these reasons, there is always a strong tendency to use the right hand too much. The usual result is a brickswing stroke, because when the right hand is used at all it usually elevates the club abruptly, well outside the line of play.

It seems to me that the proper place to effect a cure for a too-right-handed backswing is in the initial movement of the stroke, or even before that, when the preliminary waggle is being made. A good start must be made in anything, and this is particularly true of the golf swing; for if the thing is started correctly it is the most natural thing in the world that the motion should continue in the right line.

PROS DRAG CLUB AWAY FROM BALL

The right-hand tendency causes the player to pick his club away from the ball at the very start of the clubhead moving quite far away from the ground before the hands have moved perceptibly from their original position. Compare this with the method of the expert player who literally drags the club away, keeping it along or very close to the ground for several feet of travel. In close strokes of the putter this would mean that for a considerable space of time the right hand is almost completely relaxed, the pushing of the left hand causing the right hand in its relaxed state to flex back toward the ball so that the clubhead actually lags behind the hands. It will be noted, in reading the style of all experts, that the right wrist does not begin to break away from the ball until the club has traveled several feet.

WAGGLE LOOSENS MUSCLES

Although the waggle itself is not a part of the swing it nevertheless is an important preliminary, designed to loosen the muscles and to induce a sense of rhythm necessary in order to hit the ball effectively. The correct grip the right hand is placed in such position that the palm of the hand is pressed against the back of the shaft. In other words, so that if the club were removed and the hand opened, the palm would be presented squarely toward the ball. From this position the waggle should be made so that the right hand and wrist flex only directly forward and backward as a fish wags its tail. There should be no roll or turn, and no motion in a vertical plane. This encourages motion in a proper direction once the swing gets under way.

The sole thing is to get away as far as possible from any relation to a chopping stroke. No matter what the shot, the ball must be swept along, and this is impossible once the clubhead is permitted to stay outside the line. The left hand naturally presses inward and will guide the swing correctly unless the right sets up a disturbance.

Care of Machinery

Thousands of dollars are wasted annually through buying farm machinery and equipment out in the open, and breakdowns at critical periods always prove expensive. It costs very little, around $150, to provide an adequate, well equipped workshop for repairing threshers, tractors, combines, mowers, etc., most of which are idle about forty-eight weeks in the year. All that is necessary is a shed that will keep rain, snow and sun from the equipment. The saving in depreciation alone will easily offset the cost in the first year. The farmer who has his machinery housed has a much better chance to repair it during the winter time and with only 170 working days between the spring thaw and freeze up keeping farm machinery at maximum efficiency is really important.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION BIG MENACE

Annual Fire Toll From This Source Estimated at $16,000,000

Hay Can Become So Hot It
Will Roast Eggs in Twenty Minutes

Spontaneous combustion, to which a large number of fires every year are attributed, is a menace always present and one which must be carefully combated. It occurs when flame actually develops as a result of internal chemical action, and a vast amount of study has been given to the subject.

Certain subjects, because of their affinity for oxygen, are particularly susceptible to dangerous ignition, for example, rags or litter saturated with fish oils, linseed oil, soya bean oil, or cottonseed pressings. Mineral oils are not dangerous in this respect despite their inflammability, but practically all vegetable and animal oils or fats have a tendency to oxidize and heat up.

ROAST EGGS IN HAY

Dairy feeds containing vegetable oils mentioned above when mixed with ordinary distilled gasoline or similar feeders are also subject to spontaneous combustion and ignition if they become damp and are not properly stored with provision for ventilation. Damp hay likewise will burst into flame spontaneously when stored in stacks or mown in one layer of hay.

A farmer, who discovered his hay smoldering tested out its heating properties after spreading the pile, by roasting several eggs in it, the culinary test being accomplished in twenty minutes.

With the dairy grains referred to start to decay because of dampened conditions, nitrogen and carbon dioxide are liberated. Later methane and hydrogen are released. These gases are inflammable and explosive, in consequence of which it is highly dangerous for anyone to enter grain pits or bins carrying open flame lights.

$16,000,000 TOLL ANNUALLY

In recent years spontaneous ignition has become a cause of serious loss to property. There are some who still believe such ignition can occur only in laboratory experiments, but that the danger is commonly present is indicated by the records of the Actuarial Bureau of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, whose tabulations show an annual toll from this hazard of approximately $16,000,000.

Such fires frequently occur in furniture factories, for example, where paints containing linseed oil are employed and where oily waste and litter accumulate.

It is recommended that the

Much Activity Yesterday With Niagara, Emma Alexander and Pacific Trader in Port

Niagara Leaves 6,000 Cases of New Zealand Butter For Local Merchants

With three passenger ships at the Rithet piers yesterday evening, the rather dim scene presented a lively scene with people moving about, baggage and cargo being slung over the sides of the ships and motor cars and trucks dashing in and out with passengers, cargo and mails.

The three liners causing this unusual activity were the Niagara from Sydney, Australia, and Honolulu; the Emma Alexander from San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco, and the Pacific Trader from the United Kingdom by way of the Panama Canal and Los Angeles.

"This is our first trip to Canada," said Mr. Edgerton last night, "and we are greatly looking forward to our trip across the Atlantic Coast." Starting out from England about eighteen months ago, Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton have been traveling extensively. They went from England to France then across the Mediterranean and down the Red Sea to India. There they spent considerable time traveling extensively inland. "The people of India do not seem to care a great deal about the outside world," Mr. Edgerton said.

"They are too wrapped up in their cults and mystic religions. My wife and I were in India at the time of the reported trouble but we saw nothing unpleasant."

UNSETLED CHINA

From India the couple went to the Straits Settlements and also crossed to the East Indies, which they found intensely interesting. The people are not very neat and clean, but living there is as it must have been centuries ago. The Philippine Islands came next and then China. They had been rather anxious about visiting China, so much had they heard about the "wars" there. Mr. Edgerton said, GOING ONCE AGAIN. The trip which Mr. and Mrs. Davidge are making Friday has been the same for many years. To cruise in South Seas and anchor in some quiet blue lagoon at will, or to live on some palm-fringed island, and perchance find an Island Utopia, is what the adventurous couple call real living. With this thought in view the keel of the Lorna D was laid several years ago in a cove at Maple Bay. The shipbuilding was to be done at the shipyard which had been seaworthy enough to withstand the gales which would sweep over her in mid-ocean, and yet small enough to be handled by Mr. Davidge without the help of an experienced navigator. It is said that the sails alone of the craft cost $1,000.

The Lorna D was launched several years ago and since that time Mr. Davidge has been steadily improving her and making changes. Of recent weeks she has been out cruising around the Gulf of Georgia with Mr. and Mrs. Davidge aboard. During these cruises the couple polished up their navigation, and when they left Esquimalt last week they felt thoroughly competent in case of weather conditions.

The Lorna D of twenty-seven registered tons and carries nautical auxiliary engine, so that she must depend entirely on her sails.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidge have no idea how long they will be gone or exactly where they are going. The groups of islands just north of New Zealand appeal to them and they intend to go on to those as far as Robert Louis Stevenson. The two Victoria boys are not going to the South Seas yet. They will leave the Lorna D at San Diego and strike south inland, intending to go at present to a place just south of Mexico City in search of wealth and adventure there. It is possible that if they do not like Mexico they will continue to the South Seas.

ANOTHER NEW SHIP COMING FROM EUROPE

Damsterdyk Will Complete Maiden Voyage at This Port Next Thursday Or Friday

Victoria will greet another new ship next week when the Holland-American motor ship Damsterdyk arrives here from Europe on Thursday or Friday from Europe, according to word reaching A. P. Moffatt, local agent this morning. The Damsterdyk is now coming up the Pacific Coast from the Panama Canal, and before coming here will call at Los Angeles and San Francisco. Mr. Moffatt will be advised as to the exact time of arrival of the new ship early next week.

The Damsterdyk is a sister ship to the Delft which made her maiden voyage to the Pacific Coast from Europe about a year ago. She was built to augment the Holland-American service through the Panama Canal to and from Europe, route which is fast gaining popularity with traders.

There is accommodation for 100 passengers aboard the Damsterdyk in large cabins for one, two and three persons. The public rooms are large and bright and include a lounge, a library and large social hall-smoking room. The deck house is spacious and besides the promenade deck, which runs completely around the ship, there is a large area for deck games on the upper deck. The dining-room extends the full width of the ship and seats the entire passenger list and the officers at the one sitting.

FORM OPINIONS OF PEOPLES ON WORLD VOYAGE

London Couple Pass Through Victoria From Australia Aboard Liner Niagara

India and China: They Found Quite Peaceful Despite Reports in Outside World

"It is surely very wonderful to travel around the world and see things and form opinions of the people in the various countries," said Robert Edgerton of London, England, who passed through Victoria yesterday evening aboard the liner Niagara in the course of a round-the-world voyage. Mrs. Edgerton is with him and together they are taking their time and stopping in places that appeal to them. Now that they are nearing home, however, they are a bit anxious to reach England, so they plan to cross Canada with very few stops and at Montreal join the liner Duchess of Atholl on October 24.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—Wheat market gave a surprising exhibition to-day, being very weak during the first half of the day, with prices climbing about 3¢ from the earlier low marks. The reversal of action was due entirely to a general short covering movement, which was followed by an upturn in the New York stock market after early weakness, when new lows were established in some of the leading issues, the upturn being due to support by banking interests.

The wheat situation appeared hopeful in the first part of the day, nothing being no export business of any significance and no outside interest shown, and prices decline 1 1/4¢ under the previous close, and the May future made a new low for the year at 77 1/2. Offerings were light throughout the day, but selling was difficult during the first part, but buying was just as difficult in the late trading.

The cash market was quiet with only a small trade passing, but there was a fair inquiry for all grades, but buyers were not inclined to increase their bids while holdovers were inclined to ask a little better. There was no change in the flour situation, which continues very dull.

Liverpool closed 1/2 to lower, and Broomhall reported the demand abroad for wheat as very small, with Russia still selling and shipping. Rains were received in Argentina and Australia, and crop conditions in both countries are now favorable, but more moisture will shortly be needed.

The rains in the winter wheat belt have also improved conditions, but general rains in Canada have been damaging wheat that is still unthreshed. The upturn to-day was largely due to short covering and the market is now technically weaker. However, the stock market should be watched closely and with continued strength in securities the commodity markets might do a little better for a few days. Winnipeg futures closed 1/2 to 1¢ higher.

Coarse grains: These markets followed the trend of wheat, but there was no feature to the cash demand, only an odd carload changing hands. Oats closed 1/2 to 3¢ higher, barley 3¢ up, and rye 2 1/2 to 3¢ higher.

Flax: Dull but firmer in sympathy with the general strength, closing prices 1/2 to 2 cents higher. No feature.

1928 By RUTH DEWEY GROVES "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO" etc.

Dan seized her by the shoulders, none too gently. Her gasping cry reached the ears of the driver who glanced over his shoulder. Then he stopped the car. It was his coat pocket that pulled out a pack of cigarettes. The words he had just glimpsed would not be brief, he reasoned. There would be time for a leisurely smoke.

Jerry put her tear-stained face against Dan's while he held the cigarette. "I wish you would kiss her," he said.

Dan fought off a corresponding desire. He was slightly bewildered by Jerry's change of heart, and he could not trust it.

Told himself that she did not believe he would return to her.

If he took advantage of her emotional weakness now she was sure to regret it when Alester appeared. Moreover, he reminded himself, she never had said, or even hinted, that she loved him. His wish had been father to that thought.

Just because she lay passive in his arms was no assurance that she'd willingly yield to his kisses. She was simply unstrung, and ready to weep on anyone's shoulder.

This thought aroused Dan to action. He lifted Jerry away from him and she fell back against the leather upholstery with a suddenness that surprised her.

Dan stepped out of the car and turned to assist her. Jerry looked at him with startled eyes. His face, now made plainly visible by the street lamp, was grim and set.

The first realization swept over Jerry as she made her way out of the cab. It was with shame that she thought of her yearning to have him kiss her. Why, he despised her!

They walked up the steps to the steps of the old boarding house in silence. Jerry quietly fished for her key and inserted it in the lock herself.

She pushed the door open and with the silence still unbroken ran blindly up the stairs to her room.

Dan stood in the deserted hall until he heard a door slam. Then he went hurriedly out to the waiting cab and off.

Upstairs Jerry was hating herself for her lame excuse of self-control. What could Dan think of her—except that she was cheap? Of course, she might one day come to him and then do her best to make another kiss her! It would look that way to Dan.

How could he know that if he'd kissed her in the cab she'd been just like any other girl who had found her lover? He was soon about her, though for just that little moment when she hadn't wanted to marry Alester. She was wrong about Alester, too, she told herself. He would come back.

Her head ached as she thought of herself as a person being swindled by these two men and not knowing where to stop. But that was over now. She would go to Atlantic City on the train with the troupe.

When Myrtle came in she found Jerry with a towel wet with witch hazel laid across her face.

"Your blowout did break up early," she remarked in surprise.

"I got a headache," Jerry replied and let it go at that.

It was almost dawn before she fell asleep. Myrtle woke her at 7.

"Aren't you leaving early with Alester?" asked Myrtle.

Jerry sat up with a start because she became conscious of the change in her piano.

"No, I'm going on the train," she said, and dropped back into pillow again.

But at 8:30 a.m. when she still lay in bed, she heard the doorknob ringing in the unmistakable fashion of messenger boys or special delivery postmen. She wondered with small interest if it could be for her. Not likely, she thought.

In a few minutes the landlady was knocking at her door. She went to open it a crack without stopping to put on a kimono. Through the narrow opening she saw a square box with a familiar appearance in the landlady's arms. As she opened the door wider to take the box from the landlady's hands, "Found better, got some clothes on; nobody would ever catch me in a nightgown like that."

Jerry ignored her remark. She was interested in the box and its contents. Orchids, of course. Well, she got up to run for the "rainbow" down to Atlantic City at least she could flash $50 worth of flowers to make up for what she had lost.

No one could have sent them but Alester. She felt in the folds of the green paper for a card. There wasn't any. He hadn't meant them as a peace offering, Jerry concluded. They must have been ordered before their quarrel.

Jerry took her time about dressing and packing. The train left in the early part of the afternoon. At 12:30 she was putting the last of her things into a black fabric dressing case. She packed at a seat. At 12:35, as she was on her way to go to lunch, the doorknob rang again with that same "I bring news" assurance. This time Jerry was more concerned. It could be word . . . from Dan.

When she doored, she was preparing over the banister. Then she drew back quickly as the man who stood outside glanced towards the stairs.

It was Alester, and Jerry caught a glimpse of the black and yellow roadster at the curb before she ducked into the room.

"I bring news," Jerry said to him. "Well, if she isn't I guess it won't take her long to get ready," the landlady retorted. "The way girls dress nowadays . . ."

She was annoyed, though she was annoyed. Think of one of Alester's servants greeting a caller like that!

She crept back into her room and closed the door softly while the landlady tramped half way up the stairs and stopped to call out the message in one hand.

Jerry threw open the door.

"Yes, what is it?" she said in a high, gay voice. "Oh, Mr. Cartairs!"

She came to the top of the stairs.

"Why, hello, Alester," she said to him. "Nice of you to come for me, but I can't leave right now. I've an engagement to lunch at the Ritz."

CHAPTER XXXII

Jerry could scarcely contain her laughter when she heard the hurriedly made up to Alester.

Ack Miss Ray if she's ready to start for Atlantic City, indeed!

She saw the expression on his face change to a black scowl and guessed that he knew she had an engagement with Dan.

"I'm afraid he would think that Dan was the man, but she hadn't dared to announce his name . . . Alester might know it wasn't true."

He wouldn't scowl like that, she told herself. Since Dan's name had popped into his mind. She could be lunched with him.

Evelyn or someone he did not know.

Alester hesitated a moment before speaking. Then: "All right," he said. "I'll drive you over to the hotel. Have your things brought down if they're packed so we won't have to come back for them."

"But I've decided to go on the train," Jerry replied.

"And I've decided to take you," Alester returned. But he said it very quickly.

Jerry bristled. If she could only put over that mythical luncheon engagement she wouldn't mind relenting a bit . . . giving in halfway. But what could she possibly do when she got to the Ritz?

"Come up and get my things," she said, "and gain time. "We haven't a minute," she remarked in surprise.

The landlady stood by with watchful eyes while Alester entered Jerry's room to get her suitcase and bag.

Jerry slyly shoved the new dressing case out of sight under the bed.

"I'm all set," Alester added, taking up the other two pieces.

"That's all," Jerry said with a perfectly straight face.

Then after bidding good-bye to the landlady and giving her a dollar, she followed Alester down the hall.

On the stairs she had left a note for Myrtle who was out with George. With the note she left $12 to pay for her share of the rent for two weeks. The girls had agreed not to keep the room together any longer, but Jerry feared Myrtle might not find another room soon. She didn't want to bear the expense of a double room.

She was seated in the car and Alester was shifting into gear when she claimed that she had forgotten something. He helped her out of the car.

"Just be a minute," he said and the two of them went inside. Once inside the house she went to the pay telephone and dropped a nickel in the slot.

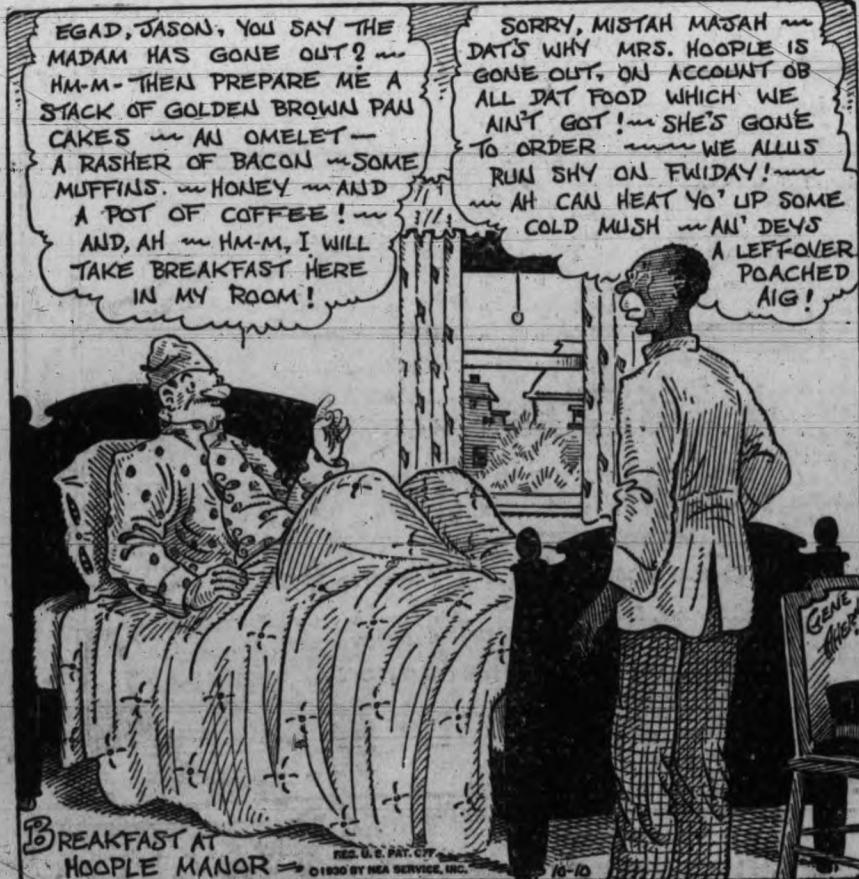

"A short wait," and she got her number. She was glad that Evelyn was there when she called again. Jerry had written to her.

"I'm all set," she said to him. "I've saved time. Then she took her friend for a walk. Jerry was conscious of her reluctance. She was sorry that Evelyn did not approve of her plan, but all that mattered now was to have her do as Jerry had requested. "When she knows why," Jerry To be Continued

When leading against a suit declaration, your partner having bid and your hand contains the ace and king of spades, trump and your hand also contains a singleton, the singleton should be led as you are sure of getting in quick on the trump. You can then lead your partner's suit and obtain and early ruff. An example of this play is given below.

NORTH	S-1-7-3
WEST	H-A-5-2	EAST
3-8-4	D-9	3-Q-10
H-K-Q-J	C-10-9-4-2	H-10-8

SOUTH-DEALER C-A-K

At contract, South, the dealer, opened with one spade, the ace and the king of spades and the king of diamonds being his required two one-half quick tricks. South had two spades, while others prefer one-half and one-half and would pass. Many players with East's holding would take the declaration to four hearts, while others prefer three, in which case West would go to four hearts.

THE PLAY
At North's opening and if he opens the fifth of spades, the top of his partner's suit, the declarer will go game, losing only two spades and the ace of hearts. As North holds the ace x x of trump, the nine of diamonds is her correct opening. Dummy plays the seven of hearts, South wins with the ace North, the jack of spades and declarer's suit. South now leads the ten of diamonds. The declarer starts his trump suit by leading the king of clubs, which North wins with the ace North, should now lead his partner's suit, the jack of spades and declarer's suit. South wins with the five of hearts. The declarer has the rest of the tricks, but North by opening the seven of spades, which South wins with the ace, another diamond is declarer's suit. North ruffs with the five of hearts. South now leads a small diamond which North ruffs with the duece of hearts. North returns the seven of spades, which South wins with the ace. Another diamond is declarer's suit. South wins with the five of hearts. The declarer has the rest of the tricks, but North by opening the seven of spades, which South wins with the ace, another diamond is declarer's suit. North ruffs with the five of hearts. South now leads a small diamond which North ruffs with the duece of hearts. North returns the seven of spades, which South wins with the ace. Another diamond is declarer's suit. Martyrdom

Why have women a morbid yearning to be pitied? Since pity always involves a certain condescension of the pitier toward the one who is pitied—a recognition of the fact that the poor unfortunate creature with whom one sympathizes is less fortunate than one is oneself—it would seem that no woman with any self-respect and pride would desire pity as a deadly insult. Such is far from being the case, however. She simply laps it up and begs for more and she will go to as shameless lengths to get more as a drug addict will to get cocaine or morphine.

Back of nearly all of the walls of women at the hardships of their lot is this curious longing to be pitied. Take the case of the working woman as an example. In reality the average woman likes to work outside her home. She enjoys dolling herself up and going down to the store or office in which she is employed. She likes seeing new people; the banter and chattering of selling goods; the delight of handling beautiful and delicate fabrics and fine, feminine frapperies; the orderly routine of the office. The sense of independence and the handling of her own pay envelope thrill her to the marrow of her bones.

But just about one woman in a thousand will admit to liking her job and to having the time of her life earning her own living. The other 999 pull a long face and moan over the hardness of their lot because they are poor working girls.

Actually they are not sorry for themselves. They realize that they are having a better time, more fun and more beauty than the rich girls who have sit at home and wait for a stray man to happen to stroll their way, for they are down in the places where men abound and they have first choice at the go-getters and hustlers. Nonetheless, they feel that they have to put up their white for sympathy. But why they wish to be pitied instead of envied Heaven alone knows.

It is woman's insatiable appetite for sympathy that explains why so many wives endure the martyrdom of unhappy marriages. All of us know women who have put up with drunken and brutal husbands for years, and we have wondered why they did not leave them. All of us know wives who support trifling, no-account husbands who are so ungrateful and abusive that they are like snarling dogs which bite the hand that feeds them, and we have marveled that their wives did not chuck them out and lock the door behind them.

All of us know women who come and weep upon our breasts and tell us that they are married to men so surly and ill-tempered, so stingy and hard, that make their lives a purgatory on earth, and we have lain awake at night speculating over why they stuck to it.

The simple explanation is that they were amply repaid for whatever woes they endured by the pity they evoked. The sympathy their pathetic fates called forth was a sweet morsel that they rolled under their tongues and they wouldn't have traded off their drunkards or their loafers or their grouchies for the model husbands of the community.

For the woman with a real bona fide Al grievance that everybody recognizes at sight as a genuine grievance, and that calls forth the public sympathy, has a never-ending source of bitter pleasure that gives her a kick she never gets out of any mere placid, everyday happiness.

Now does this avid appetite for pity satisfy itself on the sympathetic handout we give to those women who have really made unfortunate marriages and have cruel husbands. It causes the women who have nothing to complain of to make a bid for our tears also.

Women who are married to generous, kind men who are good providers; women who have lovely homes and ride around in limousines and wear imported frocks and who live on the fat of the land, are forever bemoaning their destinies and appealing to us to pity them them because their husbands are business men instead of poets, or because they have magenta longings that their husbands do not share, or the aura of their husbands' souls doesn't match theirs, or because of some other tomfoolishness.

The extent to which women will go in their mad desire to be pitied finds its fullest illustration in the fact that they will even sacrifice their children to it. It is the commonest thing in the world to hear mothers complaining of their children and telling how ungrateful they are and how much they sacrifice for them and how little their sons and daughters do to repay it. Worse still, a mother will sit up and traduce her children just for the pleasure of having some one "poor Mrs. Jones" or "poor Mrs. Smith" here.

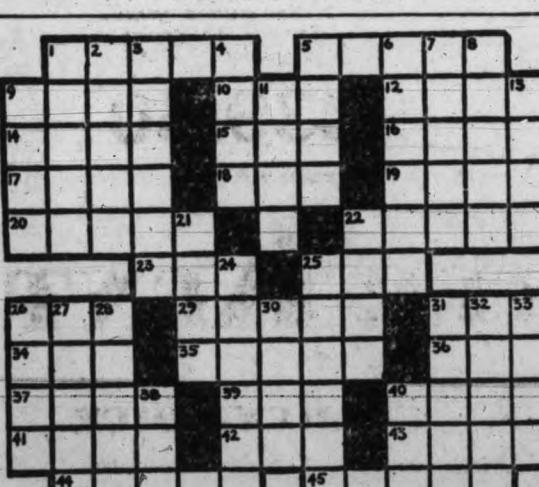

And the poor, foolish mother doesn't realize that she is paying for the sympathy she is begging for by blighting Mamie's chances of marriage and blackening Sally's character and ruining her boys' opportunities of getting in with worthwhile business men.

But the worst phase of all of women's mania for being pitied is that if no one else will pity them they can get absolutely maudlin drunk on self-pity. A woman can sit down and get actually drooping thinking how sad it is that she has to put up with a husband who is just a human being instead of a movie hero, and how terrible it is that she has to take care of her children and keep house instead of always standing on the stage in the spotlight or being the Queen of Sheba.

She can reduce herself to a sodden pulp, if she isn't married, by dwelling on her lack of husband and home and children. And she can dissolve herself into a perfect hydrant of tears by contemplating the miseries of either being a domestic woman or a business woman. Either way she has a perfectly grand time being miserable and feeling herself an object of sympathy, who doesn't get her just appreciation in this cruel world.

Funny, isn't it, how women like to be pitied? Martyrdom is their favorite indoor sport.

AT THE THEATRES

GREAT SPECTACLE OF SWISS ALPS IS NOW SHOWING HERE

Every event in Universal's remarkable picture, "The White Hell of Pitz Palu," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre for a three week engagement, is based on actual experience of Dr. Arnold Fanck, noted director and Alpinist, who was the first to climb Peak Palu, the most forbidding height in the Alps, on skis. His loss of one of his dearest friends on an expedition seven years ago forms the basis of the dramatic climax of the picture. Terrific avalanches and snow slides are graphically shown and described in the picture by Graham McNamee, famous NBC ace broadcaster. The cast includes Leni Riefenstahl, Gustav Diessel, Ernst Petersen and Ernst Udet, famous aviator. Dr. Fanck and G. W. Pabst directed.

BRITISH VETERAN WAS ENGAGED TO HELP MAKE PICTURE

Colonel Gordon Magee, perhaps the foremost authority in Hollywood on British and other foreign military regulations and atmosphere, was technical advisor, ending up as Captain in the picture. The picture, "British Veteran," was directed by Eddie Cantor, who was the first to climb Peak Palu, the most forbidding height in the Alps, on skis. His loss of one of his dearest friends on an expedition seven years ago forms the basis of the dramatic climax of the picture. Terrific avalanches and snow slides are graphically shown and described in the picture by Graham McNamee, famous NBC ace broadcaster. REAL STORM WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR DELAY IN FILMING

Believe it or not—a real thunder-shower spoiled one of the "storms" scenes, while "Animal Crackers," the new Marx Brothers' comedy feature which opened yesterday at the Dominion Theatre, was delayed because of the weather.

The sequence shows Chicco and Harpo Marx removing a painting from its frame during a storm which has put out the lights at the country house where they are guests.

"Cut," shouted Director Victor Heerman, "we'll finish the storm scene when the storm's over."

The explanation for this paradox is that lightning produces static in the delicate microphones to such an extent as to make voices of the actors completely inaudible.
